Living the high life

Seniors praise apartment living at The Towers

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus residents Joe and Helen Constante think that someday they would like to live in a place like Romulus Senior Citizen Towers.

From what they have seen and heard the "Towers seem like a very nice place to live," Joe Constante said.

The "Towers" as it is called, is a low-income senior citizen apartment complex located at 36500 Bibbins. It is a private development by Wingate Management Corporation of Southfield. It is subsidized by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

"Key Manor, Oak Brook and Morgan Manor Apartments also have senior housing but the Towers is the only (Romulus) complex solely dedicated to seniors," according to Mayor Beverly McAnally.

Since opening in November 1980, the six-story 126 unit "Towers" have been very popular. According to its manager, Jean Smith, "We've always had a waiting list. There aren't any vacancies. Currently, there is a one-and-a-half year waiting list for one-bedroom apartments and a five-year waiting list for two-bedroom apartments."

Residents say there are many reasons why the facility is so popular with seniors including cleanliness, services provided, security, and good management.

Joan and Joseph Scibilia, who have lived at the complex for about a year, are very pleased with their new home. Mrs. Scibilia was unhappy at first because she found that moving from a house to an apartment was a big adjustment. She is now over her depression. "I can't find anything to improve on. Our two bedroom apartment is nice and roomy. We have everything we need. The apartment manager is very good, and the people are lovely. They're very cheerful." Her only complaint is the lack of restaurants in the immediate area. "We could use more eating places - like some restaurants close by."

Another resident, 92-year-old Genevieve Stafford, is also quite content at the Towers. She has lived at the apartment complex for three years. She marked her third anniversary on April 11. She is very pleased with the services provided. "I love it. There are a lot of dinners, and always something going on. Also, there are two different places to buzz if we need someone."

Veteran resident Reba De Rosier, who has lived at the facility since it was opened in 1980, said all her needs are taken care of. She said her bank and store are within walking distance.

The Towers are also very special to her because it is where she met her husband,

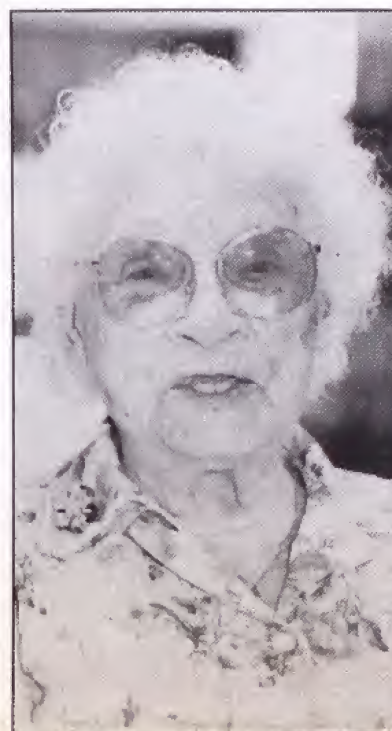

Helen and Joe Constante

Rebecca DeBrosier

Joan Scibilia

Genevieve Stafford

Harvey. They were married in 1984.

Resident Manager Jean Smith also speaks with pride when she talks about the complex. "I enjoy living in here. I don't believe that there's anyone that lives in here that doesn't like living in here."

Independent living is one appealing factor at the Towers. According to Smith, residents must be self-sufficient.

Each apartment has carpeting, drapes, a stove, and a refrigerator. A washer and dryer are located on each floor. Services are available to meet residents' various medical and social needs. A foot doctor comes in once a month, and a hearing aid specialist visits once every three months. Blood pressure is taken at least twice a month, by Annapolis Hospital personnel and by fellow resident Beatrice Baer. Residents are also encouraged to participate in the Romulus Recreation Department's Nutrition Center Program across the street.

In addition, many social activities and events are planned for the facility's 138 residents ranging in age from 62 to 94 years old. Activities include bingo, potlucks, birthday dinners, religious services and many parties. A 60th anniversary party for Margaret and Hubert Gilbert was staged on Sunday, and other upcoming events include a party for eight 90-year-olds and a balloon lift-off in May.

The facility also has a multi-purpose room, with tables, a small kitchen and a dance floor. Smith said that on occasion live entertainment is provided. However, she said, that most people will not dance because "there aren't enough men, and women don't want to dance with each other."

Some 118 women and only 20 men live at the Towers.

Security and emergency measures are also important to residents, Smith said. Surveillance cameras are located at the facility's front and back doors. Each apartment is equipped with two buzzers, in the bathroom and bedroom, that tie into a 24-hour emergency service company.

Those interested in the Towers should visit the facility, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., weekdays. All applicants must submit a basic information card. Income criteria is $21,000 (maximum) for one-bedroom apartments and $24,000 (maximum) for two-bedroom apartments. Questions should be directed to Jean Smith at 942-1230 during working hours.

Housing

finally decided upon, according to CSI.

Oakes said that a suggested site of 17 acres of city-owned property at Van Born Road and 4th Street will probably be ruled unacceptable by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development because it is too isolated. For the plan to be feasible, convenient retail shopping must be available. A few other sites being considered but because the value of land will go up if the locations are made public, Oakes could not reveal site specifics to the council members.

In other business, Oakes also said that his department has been in touch with a few private developers who have "expressed an interest in doing a multi-family project, possibly through the Michigan State Housing Development Authority." According to Oakes, one company was "willing to set aside additional senior units in return for city donation of the site."

Spring fair set at school

Student 'Superstars' named

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

A Superstars Competition, co-sponsored by the Romulus Recreation Center and Romulus Junior High, was staged in March.

The month-long competition, featuring 21 intellectual and athletic events, took place after school hours and was open to all seventh and eighth graders. Activities included: Trivial Pursuit, Brain Teasers, paper airplane contests, an egg dropping contest, push-up and sit-up competitions, a basketball free throw contest, floor hockey, and an obstacle course.

Each student was allowed to participate in a maximum of 15 events, and received points based upon place finishes in each event. At the end of the entire competition, points were tallied and the top three girl and boy finishers from both grades were awarded trophies by Tom Williams, junior high teacher/sponsor.

opens at mall

Project Health-O-Rama will continue from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. through April 22 at Westland Center, located at Wayne and Warren roads, Westland.

The health services provided are available to anyone 18 years of age and older. Participants may receive free health screening tests, with the exception of the option blood panel tests ($10) and colorectal cancer screening kits ($3). The total health care savings is estimated to be more than $150 per participant.

Basic tests and services will include: heights and weight, counseling and referral, health hazard appraisal, blood pressure, glaucoma, blood test panel, vision and colorectal kits.

Special tests include: free pap smears, sponsored by Ann Arbor Hospital, hearing tests, pulmonary function tests and medications counseling.

On Friday, mammograms will be offered.

Sheriffs recruits are now being sought

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is recruiting to fill 40 to 50 police officer positions. To register for the 8 a.m. April 24 state-required, pre-employment exam, pick up an application form at the Detroit Metropolitan Police Academy, 2310 Park, Detroit.

Application fee is $10 for the written portion and $25 for the physical agility. Only money orders will be accepted. Call 224-1300 for more information.

Public hearing set for prison facility

A public hearing and group tour of the Scott Regional Facility, in Plymouth, has been set for April 21.

State Rep. Mike Nye (R-Litchfield) said legislators will meet with local residents beginning at 6 p.m. in the Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth. State Rep. Jerry Law (R-Plymouth) will also be present.

Nye and other members of a state House Republican Task Force on Prison Reform were appointed earlier this year to develop ideas for prison reform. The seven-member task force has staged three hearings and toured four other facilities throughout the state.

Communities set to honor Bill Faust

State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) will be honored Friday, April 22 by officials and residents in several local communities.

The testimonial dinner is set for 7 p.m. at the Wayne Ford Civic League, 1661 N. Wayne Road, south of Ford Road, Westland. Tickets are $5 per person.

The event is sponsored by the communities of Belleville, Flat Rock, Huron Township, Romulus, Sumpter Township, Taylor, Van Buren Township, Wayne and Westland.

Call Kathie at 728-5010 for more information.

Western, Downriver
conference to meet

Representatives of the 17-member Conference of Western Wayne and the Downriver Community Conference will join forces on June 2 to discuss major topics of mutual concern.

Special students

In light of secretaries week next week, two Romulus Senior High School students should receive special recognition. The students, Tracy Matheny (left), a senior at the school, and Katie Kearns, also a senior, took top honors in a state secretarial competition recently. Kearns earned a first-place spot in the state meet for legal application. Matheny won a second-place honor for her skills as a financial assistant. Both students will be heading to the national competition, which begins April 27 in Louisville, Ky. The event is sponsored by the Office Education Invitational. Judges have drunk driving 'cure'

In-car breath analyzers may soon become the cure for repeat OUIL offenders.

Several area judges are intrigued by the new apparatus and in general think it is a good idea.

Beginning April 4, Michigan Secretary of State Richard Austin added court-ordered "ignition interlock" restrictions to driving records of motorists convicted of operating under the influence of liquor or controlled substances.

The ignition interlock requires motorists to breathe into a breath analyzer before starting his or her car. The in-car apparatus would determine if the driver's blood level is too high and, if so, will not allow him to start the car engine.

"We've looked at it and will use it in the appropriate cases," said 18th District Court Judge Thomas Smith.

Judge John McDonald, 35th District Court, said it was a good idea. But he has not found a need for using it in his district.

"We have very good probation (services) here, so we haven't seen a crying need for it," McDonald said.

McDonald said if he were to come across an OUIL offender who has repeatedly violated probation, he would consider implementing the new punishment.

The new law requires the secretary of state to set standards for ignition interlock instruments, certify acceptable models and record of this restriction on driving records.

Surprisingly, many people don't realize that Michigan Lottery revenues help the state's public schools. The following addresses that issue.

Q: What happens to Lottery revenues?

A: Since 1981, revenues from all Michigan Lottery games have been earmarked for the state School Aid Fund to help support kindergarten-12th grade education.

Q: How much does the Lottery contribute?

A: To date, the Lottery has provided approximately $2.9 billion to the state! In the last fiscal year, the Lottery's contribution exceeded $407 million.

Q: Why haven't my taxes gone down as a result of the Lottery contribution?

A: The annual state budget for support of elementary and secondary education is continually increasing. So, while your taxes may not have decreased, maintaining the same level of education funding without Lottery revenues during the past two years alone would have cost the average Michigan household another $250 more in the form of direct taxes.

Q: Does the Lottery provide this money to the individual schools?

A: No. Lottery revenues are turned over to the Michigan Department of Education for distribution to individual school districts according to terms of the School Aid Formula developed by the legislature. Thus, the Lottery has no control over, or exact knowledge of, how its contribution might figure in allocations to individual school districts.

Q: On what does the Department of Education base its allocation of these dollars?

A: According to the department, allocation of the School Aid Fund is based on local support for education. School districts which have a high local tax base are considered to be "out of formula" and receive a lesser share of funding than districts with lower tax bases. So aid per pupil and per school varies throughout the state.

Q: Who should I contact if I want more information on my school's share of the fund?

A: For more information on your area, you can contact your local school board office or write to the Michigan State Board of Education, 608 W. Allegan, P.O. Box 30008, Lansing, MI 48909.

For submitting the question leading to this column, 50 tickets for the current instant game, "Cash Explosion," have been set to Dorothy Culi of East Tawas. If you have a question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Goals: County lawmakers target jails and homeless

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Local Wayne County commissioners listed health care, economic development and an improved infrastructure as the key issues to address in the coming months of the legislative year.

Their agenda, which also includes an emphasis on juvenile justice, jail space, public safety and commission operations, represents the legislative goals package for 1988.

Kay Beard (D-Inkster), said the goals for the upcoming year are aimed at the people of Wayne County.

"The major goals are things and services for the people, especially in the health-related areas," said Beard, who serves the 12th district.

"We have found that there is a real problem with the homeless in Wayne County, and we have set up a task force to find out what some of the problems

It appears that Michigan may be heading into some tough times. With (homeless problems), the problem will only grow. We have to have some place for these people to go.

drafting the language and trying to get the support of the community," said Mack, who also wants to see the roads and bridges in Wayne County improved.

"As development has increased and spread out, the number of roads that need to be repaired has increased. We may have to have a license plate fee to help pay for the work that is needed."

The license plate fee, according to Mack, would be an extra fee for those buying plates in Wayne County and would have to be approved by county voters.

The commissioners will also attempt to find solutions for an increasing jail-space problem.

Mack agreed that jailspace is a major concern.

"We are still releasing prisoners too soon because there is no where to put them," said Mack. "And when you release prisoners too soon, you have a problem."

School officials seek added aid from state

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

A group of school officials from districts in western Wayne County is forming a committee to speak out for the rights of in-formula school districts.

In-formula school districts are those that receive state aid from Michigan. Out-of-formula school districts are those that levy enough money from property millage to be ineligible for state aid.

To be an out-of-formula district, the district must meet the per-pupil, state-set spending level. If not enough money in tax revenues is generated to meet the level, the state contributes money in the form of state aid.

Frederic E. Champnella II, president of the Southgate Board of Education, was elected chairman of the new committee. An organizational meeting was staged April 13. A meeting to develop a mission statement is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at the Presidential Inn, in Southgate.

The in-formula school districts group wants to bring attention to the fact that many school districts cannot generate as much money as the "richer school districts" and, therefore, can't provide as many educational opportunities to the students.

Champnella said time is short to lobby for in-formula concerns because the issues are already being discussed by the legislature.

"We are asking that the people we have here come together," said Paul Jones, superintendent of the Southgate school district.

Board members and superintendents from 12 in-formula school districts in western Wayne County attended the meeting. The event was organized by Champnella and Sheila Page, secretary of the Huron Board of Education.

"Most of us are trained in a humanistic philosophy. But, unfortunately, we are not able to do what we want to do," Jones said.

Southgate voters defeated a school district millage increase in March.

"I'm afraid I'm going to have to tell the board that we will have to dismantle the very things we have built up," Jones said.

Many other in-formula districts are facing the same problems.

"There is no doubt in my mind this goes beyond just hurting the students. It stifles any creativity on the part of the staff members," Jones said.

"I can't stand on the corner with a cup anymore and beg for money for a child's education," Jones said.

Gary Jackson, superintendent of the Huron schools, presented proposals to help in-formula school districts receive more equitable funding.

Jackson explained that as schools are now funded, a district such as Monroe Jefferson levies 21.75 mills and generates $7,417 per student, while a district such as Hillman levies 32.1 mills and collects $2,158 per student — even after state aid.

"That's the exaggerated example of the disparity in the state," Jackson said. "I'm not saying they shouldn't get this money, just that there is a wide disparity."

"There is no guarantee that money buys quality. But it buys books, computers and other materials," Jackson continued.

Jackson urged those at the meeting to call their state representatives and urge them to vote for aid to in-formula school districts.

One school funding proposal by the Michigan Association of School Administrators calls for a 2-percent increase in the sales tax, with part of the money going toward school funding. Another part of the money would allow for a tax break for property owners.

The proposal would also allow for a millage decrease by many school districts, Jackson said.

Another proposal is Senate Joint Resolution K, which would add $130 million in new money for schools. Under the House proposal, $630 million would be added for school funding.

Reducing landfills is key in state proposal

Stating that Michigan is on the brink of a "solid waste crisis," David Dempsey, environmental aide to Gov. James Blanchard, presented an extensive package of trash reduction measures to the Conference of Western Wayne.

A statewide plan to reduce trash to approximately 10 percent of what is currently deposited in landfills is one of the major goals of a solid waste disposal proposal developed by Gov. James Blanchard.

Dempsey outlined the proposals to members of the CWW at the April meeting conducted at the Bailey Center in Westland.

The goal of the plan, Dempsey said, would be to reduce the volume of trash put into landfills (80 percent of the 11.8 million tons of trash generated annually) through recycling, composting and reusing. If the plan were adopted, he said, only materials which had already been through the other processes would be dumped into landfills—about 10 percent of the total solid waste—by 2005.

Other aspects of the proposed plan call for the deposit law on bottles be expanded to include virtually all glass and plastic containers by 1995 and for homeowners to place wastes in separate containers (lawn clippings to be composted, cans and newspapers to be recycled, and toxic products sent to hazardous waste landfills.) In addition, the state would promote reusable products and discourage the use of disposable ones, such as styrofoam plates and cups and disposable diapers.

Dempsey said the plan would be funded by using $150 million from the proposed $800 million environmental bond measure now being considered by the state legislature. The proposed bond issue is the first time in 14 years the state has sought bonds, according to the governor's aide.

Rep. James Kosteva, told Dempsey that he is "100 percent behind" the environmental clean-up effort, but "has a problem with the $150 million for economic development." Kosteva said he and other legislators are looking for more clarity on the economic development aspect of the proposed plan.

Dempsey said the economic development funds would be used to improve the infrastructure to attract development. He said this would be done, not only by improving sewers and roads, but would also deal with "improving the quality of life" through higher education and recreation.

Recycling, incineration are answers, Mack says

Proposals which will reduce the volume of solid waste and provide incentives to landfill "host" communities are part of the Wayne County package which County Commissioner Milton Mack presented to the Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce.

Mack was one of five commissioners who spoke at the April 11 Legislative Forum at the Presidential Inn.

The 11th District representative told the SWCCC members that the proposals from the state and county are similar—both focusing on recycling and solid waste reduction.

The county plan, he said, relies on a combination of recycling, incineration, composting. He termed the county plan as "an ambitious one" and one which has merit.

The county commission said steps must be taken to control the importation of solid wastes into Wayne County, which will become "the dumping ground for the east coast."

Proposals to reduce solid wastes to 25 percent of the current amount, Mack said, would, in turn, reduce the need for new landfills—"requiring one new landfill, where we would now need four." In addition, the proposed plan would grant incentives to "host" communities such as free trash disposal for a period of time to make the siting more attractive to local residents.

Mack said it is imperative to grant "some compensation" to the landfill host communities because they must deal with litter, odors, noise and increased truck traffic.

Mack warned that failure to implement a viable solid waste policy could put Michigan into a position similar to that of New Jersey "where cities don't pick up trash and residents make their own arrangements for pick up." The consequence of the New Jersey situation, Mack said, is that "state parks and Salvation Army boxes" have become the dumping areas.

Mack said he hoped the proposed county plan could be approved in 1988 and work to implement it could begin the following year.

Citizen input sought in state wetlands hearings

Citizen input on wetlands regulations is being sought through a series of three public hearings sponsored by the state Department of Natural Resources.

The proposed rules will seek to provide clarifying definitions and outline procedures in the administrative rules for conducting wetlands applications. In the past, many problems regarding rule interpretations and lack of definitions in some areas have occurred between the DNR and western Wayne County officials.

Clarification of the wetlands regulations has been a major thrust of the 17-member Conference of Western Wayne. In addition, many of the communities within the CWW have focused individual efforts on amending the current legislation to halt misinterpretations of some unclear or ambiguous sections of the act.

According to Ann Bollin, executive director of the CWW, a response to the draft of wetlands rule changes will be formulated and sent to the DNR in early May.

Among the proposed changes is a definition of a "feasible and prudent alternative" which means a location other than the proposed which meets the following requirements: (1) is capable of accomplishing the expected benefit from the activity and (2) does not exhibit any obvious unusual factors, costs of an extraordinary magnitude or unique problems.

The proposed rule changes for the administration of the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act of 1979 are scheduled to be discussed at 1 p.m. May 2 at Northern Michigan University in Marquette, 1 p.m. May 3 at the Holiday Inn Conference Center in Gaylord, and at 1 p.m. May 6 in the Law Building Auditorium in Lansing. Written statements can be submitted to be included as a part of the hearing record if they are received before 5 p.m. May 6 by the Department of Natural Resources, Land and Water Management Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

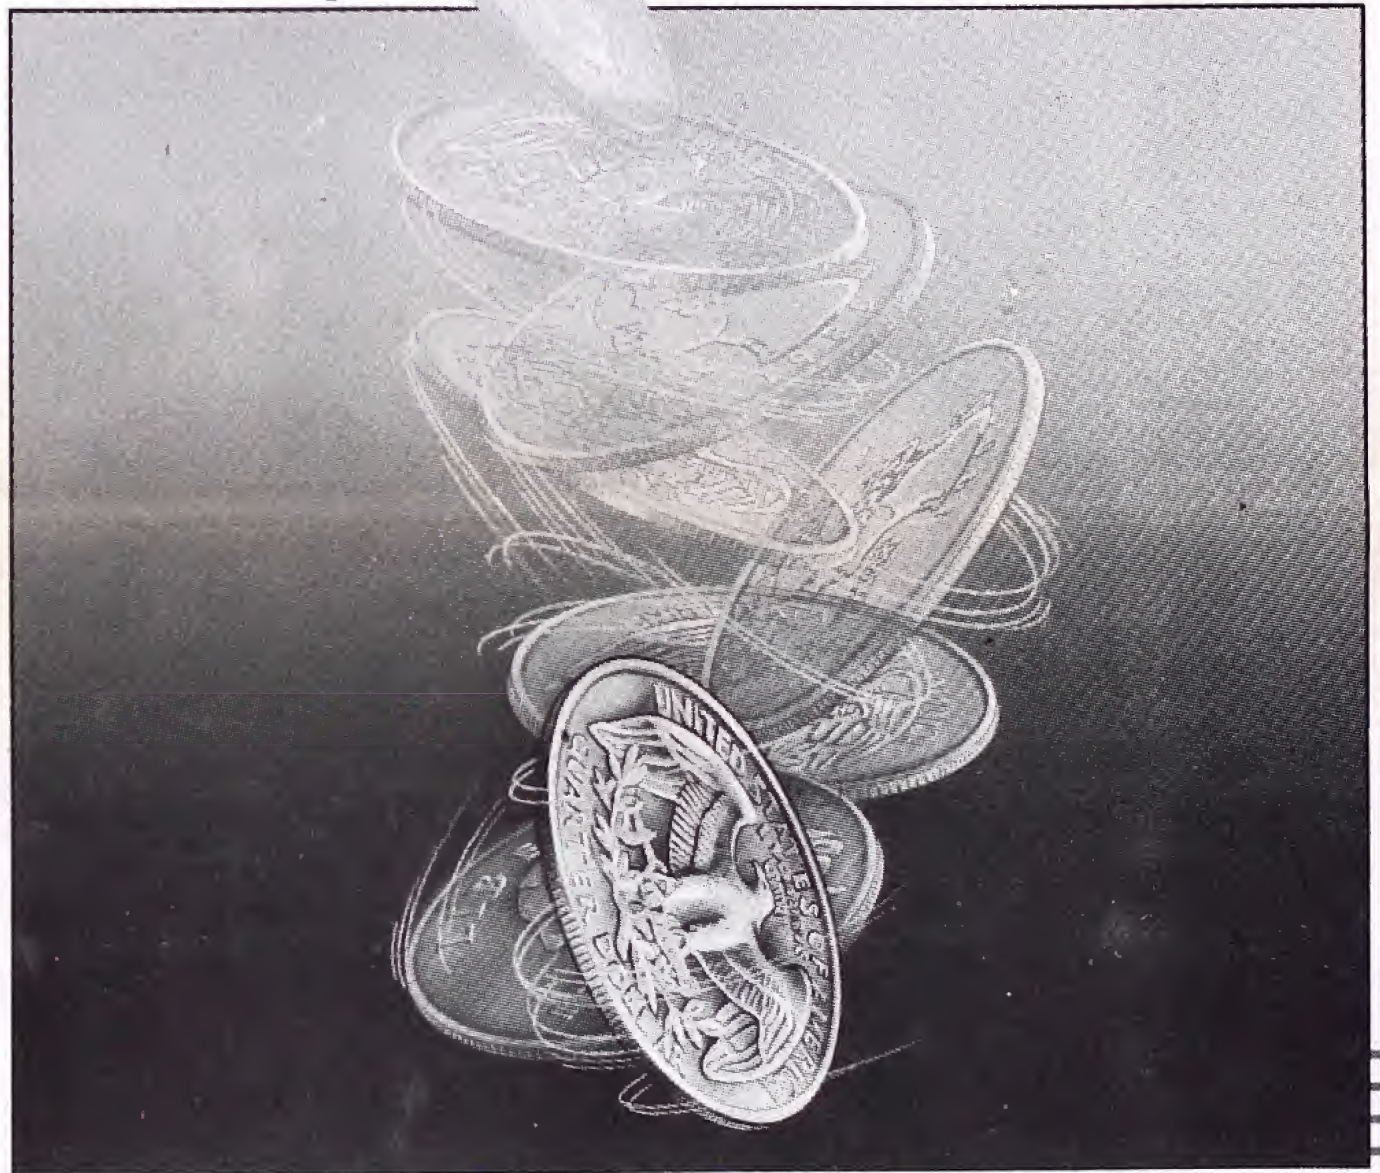

Summer swimmers?

No, these swimmers didn't go overboard with mild temperatures recently by taking a dip in an outside pool. These swimmers are the parents and children participants in the toddler swimming education program staged at the Wayne-Westland YMCA. Seven families participated in the program last month. Among those were Jack Absulon, of Westland, and little Jakkilyna. For more information on programs offered at the YMCA, call 721-7044. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Solid waste solution to benefit everyone

The topic is avoided, forgotten – even considered taboo by some. Solid waste almost seems like an issue too technical or too sensitive to discuss at the household level.

But solid waste is a word with which residents in Wayne County should become familiar and comfortable during the next five, 10 – even 20 years. It is a word that will be repeated again and again and is a word that represents a critical problem facing all of us.

The removal of garbage and wastes is no new concept, obviously. For years, our forefathers designated areas of land they dubbed "landfills" to dump the thousands of tons of trash generated each day by residents in the area. And, for years, the words solid waste never made the top of our vocabulary lists to symbolize any concern or problem of the day.

That situation changed, however, in the 1960s. It was then that environmentalists began to analyze and interpret the potential for human health hazards – not to mention the stench and lack of marketability of land nearby – from landfills and began to raise the red flag about the need to become less dependent on the manmade garbage dumps.

It was also then that officials in five local communities – Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Dearborn Heights and Garden City – began to predict the problem future of landfills. Residents in those communities banded together, financed and formed the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority, consisting principally of two (later three) incinerators to burn the trash from those communities.

The idea worked well for several years – so well that other communities secured contracts with the CWCSA – until federal Environmental Protection Agency officials put a lid on the incinerator smokestacks because of clean air problems.

Residents in the five communities quickly rebounded from the dilemma, however, approved an up-to-1-mill tax increase to finance air-quality-equipment improvements to the incinerators and watched the furnaces fire up again in February.

Indeed, residents in these five communities are sitting pretty today, knowing that landfills and solid waste are only minor concerns.

But the situation isn't so blissful in several other communities, communities which earlier this month were told about a new county solid waste plan. The new plan calls for a decline in the local dependency on landfills and promotes incinerators and other "final" forms of waste disposal.

The plan also is quite clear in saying that no community will be able to dump solid wastes in landfills after Jan. 1, 2000.

The message from county and state officials is quite simple – quit using landfills. The example set by the CWCSA is also simple – communities banding together can put an end to the solid waste worries of those communities.

The facts of solid wastes in Wayne County – in Canton, in Romulus, Belleville and everywhere in between – are not pleasant to behold. County officials estimate that residents here generate enough waste to use all available landfills by the year 2000.

The realities of solid wastes, however, can no longer be ignored and "put on the back burner." The problem is a current one, and the solution must be, as well.

We urge officials in the communities surrounding the CWCSA to consider becoming a part of the authority or form a similar consortium in cities not served by the existing facility.

We also urge local officials to discuss the solid waste problem at council meetings, township board meetings and at every opportunity at which members of the public are present.

Solid wastes can no longer be overlooked as words from a foreign language.

Order in the court

They have done it again. And we never thought they could outdo their performance from last year.

Wayne 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold and Westland 18th District Court Judge Gail McKnight have again teamed up for the annual Law Day activities in Wayne and Westland. In the past, the two have staged mock trials for students from Wayne Memorial and John Glenn high schools.

This year, the two have done one better. They have organized actual trials to be staged in the auditoriums of the two high schools, with the help of local police officials, school representatives, prosecutors and those who are having their day in court.

We commend Archbold and McKnight for another outstanding idea. It is public servants such as these two that make the American system priceless.

Nature center is gift of life

I am shocked and enraged at the crass, commercial plans being made for the nature sanctuary in Westland by two politicians, as if this were their private domain. I believe it was a gift willed to "future generations" as a historical link with our heritage and past.

The only distinguishing feature in Westland, now that commercialization is rapidly taking place, would be this natural preserve area. It should be a source of pride to men who run our government. They should be protecting this resource for our grandchildren to study and learn from.

I feel so sorry for the children of western Wayne County, who will be the losers. All we can do is remember this issue in the future and elect men of more vision than we now have.

Golfers are not obnoxious

In reply to your editorial and, especially, the obnoxious cartoon (March 30) used on the opinion page, golfers are not as interested in Mother Nature as non-golfers. If your cartoonist believes that only birdies remain on golf courses, then I strongly suggest he spend one week at St. Andrews on the Gulf, in Oceans Springs, Miss.

He would find alligators basking in the sun along-side the greens, in addition to heron, turtles, at least 100 species of birds, raccoon, squirrel, rabbits, dogs, cats, fish in the ponds, mankind going about their business in perfect harmony. Believe me, this golf course is not the only area this wildlife could live, since this course is surrounded by miles of marsh lands, woodlands, bayous and the Gulf.

From what I have read, at this point, it is simply a proposal, not as yet a happening. But if the preserve is now being used by some as a dumping grounds and funds are not available for upkeep, why not use a small parcel as a means of revenue to assure the keeping of the remaining acreage?

Wayne eagle is artwork

On the lawn in front of the old Wayne City Hall stands a marvelous work of art. I have been told that an artist, skilled in chain-saw carving, rendered this image of an American eagle from the trunk of a tree that stood in its place.

My mother is a tenant in the Wayne Living Center nursing home. I try to take her out for a ride every four days. One of the first pleasure stops on our rides is a stop at this landmark eagle.

To the city of Wayne and the artist, we say "thank you" for bringing delight to the eyes of these beholders.

Article missed the key issues

Allow me to take issue with an article written by Barbara Albert, "Teen health clinic is not sure thing," (Westland Eagle, April 6). The reporter, quoting Rebecca Cabral, indicates that Michigan Alliance of Families has provided misinformation and distributed an information sheet to parents in the area titled "How to Say No to School Based Clinics."

May I inform the readers that the reporter failed to thoroughly research her material, for it was one of your own concerned parents who disseminated the information sheet so accurately researched by MAF. We provide, free of charge, information to those who request it. MAF's president, Bettye Lewis, is nationally recognized as an authority on school-based clinics and is in demand as a speaker on the subject.

For 20 years now, parents as myself have been labeled extremist or reactionary and treated as second-class citizens by the media when opposing sex education programs. I commend those Westland parents who are trying to warn the innocent, trusting families who are caught in the middle but urge you to continue to maintain high community moral standards.

Lastly, I think the Eagle owes MAF an apology.

Ashley gets Belleville off to best start

Tiger slugger drills 3 HRs as club wins first 2

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Bill Ashley hammered two homers and drove in six runs to lead Belleville to a 12-3 victory over visiting Fordson in the Wolverine 'A' Conference baseball opener for both teams.

The Tigers went on to win two of their three scheduled games last week for their best start in recent years.

Coach John Bertz has said that he felt the 1988 Tiger ball club "would be his best" and thus far his team's overall performance has supported the statement.

"I just could not be happier," said Bertz who is in his third year as head coach. "These kids play to win, and right now they are having a lot of fun. They are hungry and are tired of losing."

Ashley, a senior centerfielder, drilled a three-run homer in the fifth off of Fordson starter and loser Rick Galay, then came right back with a two-run roundtripper in the sixth. He also collected a single to go along with his pair of homers.

Belleville leaped on Galay for five runs in the first inning, then added a pair in the next frame and went on for three runs in the fourth and two more in the sixth to seal the victory.

Bertz started Mike Coleman on the mound and Coleman, who got some relief help in the fifth from Kris King, earned the starting day victory. He notched six strikeouts and twirled a two-hitter.

Coleman helped his own cause with a pair of singles. The Tigers also received two hits - both doubles - from Jerry Litner.

Litner started the first inning five-run surge with a leadoff double to center then, after one was out, Rodney Schellenberger was hit by a wild pitch, putting runners on first and third. The Tigers scored their first run of the 1988 season thanks to a double steal, scoring Litner from third. Ashley got aboard when his infield grounder was booted and again with men on first and third Coleman sliced a single, scoring the second run. Don Richards walked, loading the bases and, after Blaine Armstrong popped up to first, Mike Harding delivered a two-run single.

Belleville was forced to settle for a split with arch-rival, Ypsilan-

Robichaud runners fall to Ecorse

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It wasn't the best or worst of starts, but it was definitely a losing start for the runners at Robichaud who launched the 1988 Suburban Athletic Conference dual track season against Ecorse on the short end of a 76-51 score.

"I really didn't expect to lose this one," stressed Jeff Flounory, who began his fifth year as head coach and his eighth overall season at the Dearborn Heights-based high school. "We didn't receive the expected efforts out of our juniors and seniors. Ironically, our underclassmen ran better than the veterans."

One of those who produced for the Robichaud Bulldogs is freshman Tyrone Wheatley who contributed one of the six first places his team recorded. Wheatley cleared 6 feet, 1 inch in winning the high jump. Earlier in the season Wheatley also distinguished himself at the prestigious Eastern Michigan University Huron Relays and the Michigan State Spartan Relays where he finished fourth and sixth, respectively, in the high jump.

On both occasions Wheatley jumped 6 feet.

I really didn't expect for us to lose to Ecorse. The seniors just didn't perform up to expectations, while the underclassmen got the job done.

— Coach Jeff Flounory Robichaud High

Flounory, an alumnus of the Associated Newspapers' All-Area football and track teams in the early 1970's, said that "this year's crop of freshmen and sophomores have the most talent and depth I have seen during my tenure as coach."

"I believe we will improve as the season progresses, and this team may put the foundation in place for some outstanding teams of the future."

Robichaud also claimed a victory in the 880-yard relay thanks to the efforts of James Gee, Maurice Schropshire, Carl Brown and Fred Matthews who were clocked in the winning time of 1:38.

The Bulldogs also had the winning entry in the shot put in Roderic James who had a put of 45 feet, 5 inches. Eugene O'Neal won the mile (4:50) and Fred Matthews took the 220-yard dash in 25.1

At the Spartan Relays, the Bulldogs came away with an eighth place with their 880-yard relay with Gee, Schropshire, Brown and Matthews looking strong. The same foursome finished sixth at EMU.

The Bulldogs were back in action last night as they were hosts for a SAC double dual. River Rouge and Willow Run were scheduled to provide the competition.

Snow stops Huron

New Boston Huron and Coach Jon Labeau will return to the diamond today to take on one of the pre-season title favorites, Grosse Ile.

"I think most coaches will agree that the weather killed us last week," Labeau said. "I don't think any of us expected that snow last Friday. We haven't been able to scrimmage and we are eager to get some games under our belts."

Belleville captures Milan Relays title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After a two-year hiatus, David Medley has returned as the head track coach at Belleville High School.

And the Belleville Tigers responded by winning the Milan Relays.

Medley, who had coached the Tiger thinclads for 11 consecutive years and guided them to two conference championships before stepping down two years ago, replaces Dave McCarney. McCarney moved over to tennis where he is putting together a squad that will make its inaugural appearance in the Wolverine 'A' Conference.

"I felt it was time to return (to coaching)," said Medley. "I am no masochist, but I love coaching. And that's why I am back."

I am not a machoist...I love coaching, and that is one of the reasons why I decided to come back to it.

Belleville runners responded with a victory at the six-team Milan Relays. The Tigers garnered 87 points, three more than runnerup Farmington Harrison. Pinkney finished third (80), followed by Novi (69), Milan (47) and South Lyon (45).

Belleville captured four first places with Michael Gentry, Virgil Chandler, Garrett Clark and Al Tilman accounting for the victory in the 800-meter relay (1:31.9). The same foursome combined to win the sprint relay in 1:36.9, while Joshua Fisher, Mark Hooks, Chandler and Clark were the winning combination for the 400-meter relay (45.2).

The Tigers also won the co-ed race in which a team of two female and two males make up the entry. With Valentine Stumpf leading off, the Tigers registered the victory thanks to Clark, Kisha Pogue and Tilman who finished in 2:43.7.

In the meantime, host Milan dominated the girls' division. The winners had 113 points, followed by South Lyon (66), Belleville (64), Pinkney (60) and Farmington Harrison (57).

Belleville will host the Tiger Relays on Saturday with a field of 10 boys and six girls teams accepting the invitation to compete. Competition will begin at 10 a.m. with the field events.

Among schools that will see action include: Redford Union, Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton, Garden City, Novi, Walled Lake Western, Taylor Truman, Woodhaven and Belleville in the boys division.

Stoh seeks cure for Romulus pitching ailments

Eagles drop their first four baseball games

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After a shell-shocking beginning, Coach Dennis Stoh and the Romulus Eagles will return to the drawing boards in an attempt to seek a solution to their pitching problems.

"I thought we were strongest in the pitching department," said Stoh after his Eagles dropped their first four games. "However, I apparently am wrong. Our pitching and defense fell apart and hitting, where I believed we were the weakest, turned out all right."

"Obviously, if you're weak in two of the three key basic

I thought our strongest points were pitching and defense. It hasn't turned out that way. They both have collapsed and it's our hitting that has kept us in the games.

skills, you're not going to win very many games."

And Romulus entered the week still looking for its first victory of the young 1988 baseball campaign. The Eagles were home to Ypsilanti Lincoln on Monday and played host to Ypsilanti on Tuesday.

(That game ushered in a new era and new league for the Eagles - it was their inaugural South Central Conference game). On Thursday and Saturday the Eagles will travel to Garden City and Belleville, respectively, for non conference games.

Romulus didn't get to see Taylor Kennedy premier hurler Steve Avery last week. Avery, considered the No. 1 prep pitcher in the state this season, didn't work on the mound. He let his bat do the talking as he drilled four doubles in a doubleheader that helped his team sweep the Eagles 13-0 in the opener and 3-2 in an abbreviated nightcap.

Stoh explained that due to the lengthiness of the first game, the second was cut short. They played only four complete innings.

Romulus starter Steve Hoinka lasted three innings, gave up seven runs and eight hits in digesting the opening day loss. The victory went to Chris Brown who scattered five hits, walked two and struck out eight in going the distance.

However, Romulus took Kennedy to the wire in the second game before Avery's last of the seventh double chased home Steve Ebel with the decisive run. Ebel had singled to get aboard.

Romulus rallied for two runs in the top of the fourth off of winning pitcher Bob Bowrey who gave up a leadoff single to Hoinka who scored on Eddie King's two-bagger. Then, Sean Shelby came through with an RBI single.

Kennedy got to loser Keith

Tigers to unveil their 1st boys' tennis team

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inclement weather delayed the unveiling of the Belleville High School first boys' varsity tennis team. Precipitation in the form of snow cancelled the scheduled match last Friday between Trenton and the Tigers, according to Belleville Coach David McCarney. The match will be made up later in the season.

Belleville has a 4 p.m. Friday date on the Tiger courts with Southgate Anderson, another conference rival.

"It will give us another week to prepare for our first match," McCarney said. "We need the time, I believe that this team is ahead of the girls' team that Susan had to field last fall."

McCarney was referring to his wife, Susan, who also faced the challenge of building, from the foundation up, the first girls' tennis team at the high school.

McCarney pointed out that during the Wolverine 'A' Conference coaches' meeting last week, coaches selected Trenton, Monroe and Wyandotte as the teams that would probably be in the thick of the title race with Wayne and Fordson seated close by.

"We have never had a varsity tennis team here at the high school, therefore, this is a building year for us. However, I am pleased with the turnout we had. Although none of these kids obviously ever had prior varsity experience, there are some who have played tennis and look pretty decent."

In that category is the coach's son, Chad, a sophomore, who is working out as the Tigers' number one singles player. Chad is in deep water as Monroe and Trenton apparently have in their lineups state-ranked players.

"It's going to be rough going for him (Chad)," said McCarney, "but I believe he is going to win his share of matches this season."

McCarney also has a pretty good stick in the number two singles. Foreign exchange student, Ignacio Servan, from Spain will represent the Tigers. Servan, a junior, knows his way around tennis courts, according to his coach. "And we are going to have to wait and see how he develops."

McCarney will round out his singles with senior Eric Lawson (number 3) and Craig Lambert (number 4). He's working with a pair of seniors - Bill Seman and Joe Komari as the number 1 doubles. In the number 2 doubles, the Tigers will be represented by Tom Neuhart and Davis Ralston. Sophomore Eric Sattler will team with Richard Lowhorn in the number 3 doubles.

"Right now it's the weather that is hindering us more than anything else. We're eager to get out there and see what we can do. It's a challenge, but one that I look forward to."

head coach at Huron, Labeau has three starters returning off of a team that finished fourth in the Huron Conference with an 8-6 won-lost record. The Chiefs finished with a 10-11 overall record.

"We have a lot of talent, but it's young and inexperienced talent that I am presently working with. And when there is a lack of experience you can expect mistakes."

The Chiefs have picked Andy Jackson and John Page, two returning letterwinners, to captain the team. The third letterwinner is Mike Debozy. Page and Debozy form the nucleus of the Huron pitching staff and both can get the job done, according to Labeau if they get ample support.

Labeau said there are a few notable players who look impressive. In that rank are sophomore Chris Good, at short, and catcher Joe McLeod.

With the exception of Dan VanDecar who appears to have the inside track on first base, the entire infield is up for grabs. Jackson and Debozy will take up their positions in the outfield when they are not on the mound.

"It is definitely going to be a long year if we don't mature quickly," Labeau offered. "After all this league produced last year's Class B state semifinalists in Airport. Along with Grosse Ile and Riverview who also have excellent teams you can see we are in trouble if we don't come around fast."

After today's encounter at Grosse Ile, the Chiefs also will be on the road Friday, clashing with Monroe Jefferson.

Pogue paces Belleville track win

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Kesha Pogue launched her senior year at Belleville High with an impressive all-around track performance against Dearborn Fordson last week.

Pogue turned in a "triple" as she won the high jump, 120-yard high hurdles and 220-yard dash which helped open the doors to a 75-53 Belleville victory over the visiting Tractors.

Belleville captured 11 out of a possible 16 first places. There was no pole vault competition.

Pogue, 17, and an outstanding athlete, also anchored the winning 880-yard medley relay. Coach Michael Garland also included Vetra Chandler, Laura Alberts and Linda Parent in the lineup which finished the event in 2:00.1.

Garland's 2-mile relay team made up of Alberts, Becky Brown, Ann Courtney and Valentine Stumpf also won. Jenny Bracken finished first in the discus throw with a toss of 81 feet.

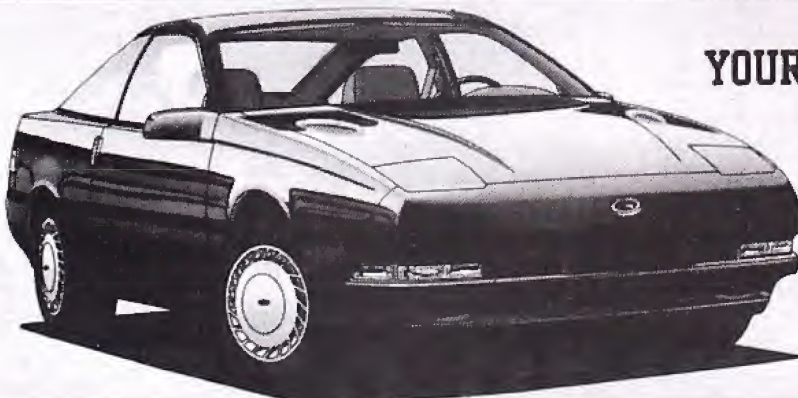

The Tigers also took the mile run with Stumpf who toured the distance in 5:49; Mitzi Herkimer finished first in the 440, while Herkimer, Alberts, Brown and Stumpf formed the winning combination for the winning mile relay.

This is a busy week for the Tiger thinc-lads who started the week off with a non-conference dual meet with neighboring Romulus, then on Thursday they will run Wolverine 'A' Conference opponent and pre-season title pick, Monroe, while on Saturday Garland's girls will host their annual Tiger Relays.

Medley

Woodhaven will be represented.

Medley said that because of his absence from the coaching scene he has little knowledge what to expect from his opponents on Saturday.

"I really don't know their relative strengths or weaknesses," Medley said. "But Truman apparently has a pretty solid team and Garden City looks good. And if the past is any indication, I look for Plymouth Salem to field an excellent team."

The Tigers got off on the wrong foot against Dearborn Fordson last Thursday. The Tractors rolled past their Wolverine 'A' Conference opponents 69-60 despite an even split (8-8) in the number of first places. This is also the first team that Medley has fielded that has lost to Fordson in this decade.

On a cold and dismal afternoon more suitable for ice skating, the Tigers received a double victory from junior Virgil Chandler who captured both dashes. Chandler was clocked in 10.1 for the 100 and 23.7 for the 220. He also anchored the winning 440-yard relay, teaming with Fisher, Mark Cooks and Clark for a 45.2 effort.

In the discus, Marc Liskey had a winning toss of 121 feet, while Lamar Robinson claimed the high jump with a 6 feet, 1 performance. Andre Brantley put the 120-yard high hurdles into the Belleville winning column with a 16.2, and Brian Koch hit the tape first for the 2-mile run. He was clocked in 10:29.0.

Medley also put together the winning mile relay team thanks to the efforts of Gentry, Tilman, Chris Rolinatis and Clark who carded a 3:40.0.

Stoh

Brothers for the tying run in the bottom of the fourth before breaking the 2-2 deadlock in the last inning.

Brothers and Bowers pitched six-hitters, but the Kennedy hurler had one more strikeout (5).

On Thursday, Romulus wasted Hoinka's grand slam homer that opened the doors for a seven-run fourth inning in losing to Taylor Truman in a slugfest, 15-13. Both teams hammered 14 hits, but their defenses were horrendous as the Eagles committed five errors and Truman had six.

Brothers chalked up three hits and accounted for two RBIs.

In the second game, Truman escaped with an 8-3 victory as a porous defense again plagued the Eagles. Truman came up with six runs in the fourth inning to erase a 3-2 deficit.

Hoinka saw his record dip to 0-2 as he came on in relief of starter Darnell Fischer to take the loss. Hoinka chalked up four strikeouts in the second and third innings before he was bombed for six runs in the fourth.

"We played two good games and two bad ones," Stoh offered. "But if the pitching and defense doesn't come around, it's going to be a long year."

They know how to really spike

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Senior Ron Wojewski of Wayne Memorial hit a grand slam in the sixth inning which put the Zebras in the lead for good as Wayne rallied to an 8-5 victory over league-rival Monroe, Tuesday.

Monroe, which has tied Wayne Memorial for the division crown the past two years, scored two runs in the first inning and one in the second to take a 3-0 lead. The three run margin lasted into the sixth inning when Wojewski put the ball over the left field fence.

The Zebras scored four more runs in the top of the seventh inning. The big hit came from Senior Mike Heard who hit a bases-clearing triple which scored Rob Puckett from third and Chris Desir from second.

Heard, an all-conference outfielder, had two RBI's and scored twice.

The game was the league opener for both schools who were favored once again to battle for the division title.

"This was an important game for us, and not just because it was against Monroe," said Wayne Memorial coach Jim Chronowski. "It showed our players that we can come back. They were within four outs of beating us when Ron hit the home run. He also had two strikes on him."

"So it was a big win from that standpoint."

Chronowski believes Monroe is still the team to watch in the Wolverine A.

"At the coaches meeting, we were picked to win the division and Monroe was chosen a close second," said Chronowski who led the Zebras to a 12-2 league record in 1987.

"They have a good ball club and they will certainly win their share of games. They aren't going to die because we beat them in the first game. I think they will still be right there at the end of the season."

Senior Dave Abner pitched the entire game and picked up his second win of the year. Abner allowed 11 hits and struck out 12 for the Zebras who scored eight runs on six hits.

ti, on Saturday as the Tigers surfaced with a 10-6 victory in the first game but dropped the nightcap 12-10 in an extra-inning affair.

King, a strong righthander, chalked up the victory against the Braves as he came on in relief of Ashley. The Braves struck for a single run in the top of the first, but Belleville replied with two in their first inning. Ypsi again took a 4-2 lead in the second inning and held until the bottom of the fifth when the Tigers tilted the scoreboard for four runs then added four more in the sixth to make it two in a row.

Ashley again sparked the Tigers as he latched on to a three-run homer, doubled and accounted for five RBIs. He also scored twice. Phil Feist, who reached base four times in the opener, chipped in with a double and single.

Belleville rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh in the second game but saw their hopes for their third straight victory collapse when the Braves came up with two runs in the top of the eighth which stood up as the difference in this one.

In the Tiger seventh, Dave Fain kept the game alive with a single to right field, then Dean Stringer and Coleman worked the Brave pitcher Shawn Clements for walks. When Clements unleashed a pair of wild pitches, the Tigers managed to score the tying runs.

Harding went 3 for 3 - all singles - against the Braves. He also scored twice. Ashley had one hit as the Ypsi pitchers decided not to pitch to him and issued three walks. And Scott Janack, returning to the lineup after minor surgery, contributed two hits in three appearances at the plate.

Ypsilanti received a homer from Rog Fletcher in the first game, and the Ypsi slugger came back with a pair of homers in the second game.

Belleville will find out just where it stands in the Wolverine 'A' Conference this week as the Tigers were scheduled to meet Monroe, the defending co-champ, last night. They will entertain Southgate Anderson on Friday and play neighboring Romulus at home on Saturday.

Area bowlers throwing strikes with the pros

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Jack Morris and Frank Tananna aren't the only people throwing strikes in Wayne County these days. Area bowlers from Wayne, Westland, Canton and other western Wayne County communities are finding the "strike zone" at local bowling centers.

And the results are quite obvious as bowlers continue to roll up impressive scores.

The most impressive scores of all were at the Town and Country Lanes, 100 S. Wayne Road, Westland. John Spence bowled a 300-game on Wednesday night in the Mens' Trio league, which has seen its share of perfect games in '88. Spence finished with an outstanding 795 series.

Dave Nagel also rolled up a perfect game at Town and Country. Nagel, who finished with a 668 series, bowled his 300 during the Thursday night Airlines Mens' league.

Spence and Nagel weren't the only ones who recorded impressive scores at Town and Country. Dan Harrison rolled a 754 series, Jim Anthony bowled a 752 series, Keith Henry rolled a 727 series, Ken Davey bowled a 754 series, Jim Vansickle rolled a 701 series and Gary Morton rolled a 700 series.

bowling

Bob Adams, who bowls in the mens' trio league, rolled a 300-game at the Michigan State tournament on Saturday.

Val Kostivk led the ladies with a 649 series.

The Westland Bowl, 5940 Wayne Road, Westland, was the scene of two scores that showed just what someone can do when they are "hot."

Michele Weaver, who has a 137 average, fired a 278 game and a 616 series in the Coffee and Donuts Ladies league. Terry Bugaski, who has a 156 average, rolled a 263 game.

The Westside Senior House league recorded outstanding scores by Lou O'Neal (289 game and 749 series), Carl Galietti (268 game and 749 series), Mike Ivanscik (257 game and 712 series), Rick Preston (279 game and 711 series), John Pretari (248 game and 706 series), Georgé Rohler (245 game and 706 series), and Paul Myers (259 game and 704 series).

Eddie Grace Jr., a 17-year-old, bowled a 253 game and a 704 series.

In the Ladies Classic, Kathy Fineran rolled a 279 game and a 673 series, Carol Sotala bowled a 243 game and a 658 series, Sandy Goga rolled a 257 game and a 646 series, Mary Porter rolled a 225 game and a 642 series, Kathie Plasencia had a 210 game and a 610 series, Jane Martin had a 225 game and a 643 series and Nancy Roth had a 204 game and a 606 series.

The Westland Bowl will have a Motown Magics' Open Tournament at 1:30 p.m. on May 1. Anyone can enter a team until April 30. For further information, contact Midge at 722-7570.

Jerry Cwick had a 268 game and a 697 series at the Super Bowl, 45100 Ford Road, Canton. Positive reinforcement important in psychology of dog rearing

Everyone would like to have his dog "boundary controlled" - that is: Never leave the boundary of the property with out being tied to the front door or post.

Accomplishing this takes time and must be reinforced periodically. But I'm responding this time to a question recently asked of me. A gentleman asked why his dog will take off through the neighborhood whenever the door opens, yet his neighbor's dog lays on the front lawn for hours at a time, never wandering an inch off his own property - and this particular dog has never had an obedience lesson.

Why most dogs run off at the first opportunity can be easily explained because there are numerous reasons. Males are more apt to enjoy freedom for the obvious reason: The scent of a female. (And the female doesn't necessarily have to live conveniently close by. She doesn't even have to be attractive or have a pleasant personality.)

Other dogs love to chase prey, and prey can be anything from a squirrel to an automobile.

What happens in almost every case is the owner chases his dog down the street, the closer he gets to his dog, the more angry he becomes. The more angry the owner becomes, the faster the dog runs because the dog realizes he'll be punished when he returns to his master. (The dog determines it's better to stay away long enough for the family to really miss him, and when frantic with worry, he returns home to pats and hugs rather than to punishment.)

As for the dog still laying on the front lawn (watching all this), there really is no specific explanation for his good behavior. It's possible he has such a bond with his people nothing could entice him away from his home. It's also possible he actually did flee from home or stray toward the street once before and had such a fright or bad experience away from the safety of his area he'll never try that again.

Some dogs are simply born to be steady, quiet and content animals. Happiness is determined by being with people. He builds a bond early in the relationship and finds no need to wander.

Females are less apt to wander because of their motherly instinct. The people who own her are her "family," and her main goal is to be watchful over them. She will hover over her own territory and not be tempted to investigate different surroundings.

Some dogs are simply too insecure to leave home. Others may simply be too lazy to leave the sunbath.

Every dog is different. Those not trained specifically in boundary control, who remain on their property, are appreciated, hopefully, as being loyal and steadfast.

How often do we find a human friend with those traits?

Groundwater contamination threat looms

Groundwater contamination is a serious problem in Michigan. More than 1,500 sites of contamination have been identified throughout the state, and it is estimated that another 250 new problem sites will be discovered this year.

Because preventing pollution problems is cheaper and safer than responding to them after they occur, state lawmakers are considering a package of 13 bills designed to clean up existing groundwater contamination in Michigan and prevent future damage.

The package includes legislation that would help ensure the reporting, investigation and cleanup of contamination caused by leaking underground storage tanks. This is especially significant, since it is estimated that there are more than 65,000 underground storage tanks containing hazardous substances throughout the state.

The bill package also contains measures that would establish a uniform, statewide well-permit program. This would help local health departments collect accurate data and set construction and abandonment standards for wells.

Other legislation in the package would require certification of underground storage tank handlers and testers, well drillers and apprentices. Supporters say the measures would assist early leak detection and help ensure that these professionals adhere to recognized safety standards.

Other bills of the package would: impose some land use restrictions in areas where water sources are vulnerable to pollution; require the grouting of all wells; and require wells that are no longer being used to be closed.

Since more than half of our state drinking water comes from groundwater sources, proponents of the bills say these measures are needed to prevent the release of hazardous substances into our drinking systems.

During the years, Michigan residents have come to understand and truly appreciate our valuable groundwater resources. This package of bills represents a new approach to groundwater protection. The plan would provide more complete information on groundwater conditions throughout the state, better control of potential contamination and more realistic regulation of groundwater discharges. This legislative initiative will help preserve the Michigan groundwater quality for future generations.

Douilly's: Great design means great food

The sweet memories of the bread pudding live on. And I don't even like bread pudding.

The great taste of the chicken stir fry is still tingling on the tip of my taste buds. And it's been days since I've visited the restaurant.

In a nutshell, the dining experience at Douilly's, in Garden City, was a good one.

Debbie — my restaurant critic/fiancee — and I visited Douilly's on a Sunday evening. The dining room was rather empty when we arrived, but it was still early. We didn't mind, as it gave us a chance to relax and truly admire the dining atmosphere created by new restaurant entrepreneurs Dick and Nancy Douilly, of Wayne.

Douilly's was opened in November by the dynamic husband-wife duo. The restaurant, located on Ford Road, at Merri-man, was best known around these parts as the Lion and the Sword, which opened in 1974. The eatery was purchased by Dick and Nancy last year and was transformed into an aesthetically pleasing restaurant, where good food and service abound.

I probably am boasting too much about the atmosphere — but with good reason. Dick and Nancy, you see, are experts at designing restaurants. For 16 years, the two have owned the D'n D restaurant design company, of Wayne, turning ordinary eating establishments into restaurant heavens. Some of their past accomplishments include the Roxy, in Belleville, Sneaky Pete's, in Livonia, Gatsby's, Novi, B.J. Bowery's, Canton, and Fibber McGee's, in Wixom. "Ours had to be better than any of them," Nancy explained. "It was tough."

But, obviously, not impossible. Douilly's is artistically decorated in mint and forest green, with a touch of brass. The restaurant, known in a former life as being dark, is now full of sunshine in a homelike atmosphere, thanks to the many windows, contemporary fixtures and bar.

"Having done all of these other restaurants — which were far more successful than the owners had imagined they

Radio station marks 20 years on airwaves

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Radio station WSDS is marking its 20th year of broadcasting with a series of special events to celebrate two decades of bringing country music to area listeners.

During the anniversary celebration, station disc jockeys will be including some of the hits of 1968 in their shows. In addition, the staff will be putting on their travelling shoes to take their programs on the road via remote broadcasts during the Strawberry Festival, Sumpter Fest, Canton Festival and other summer events.

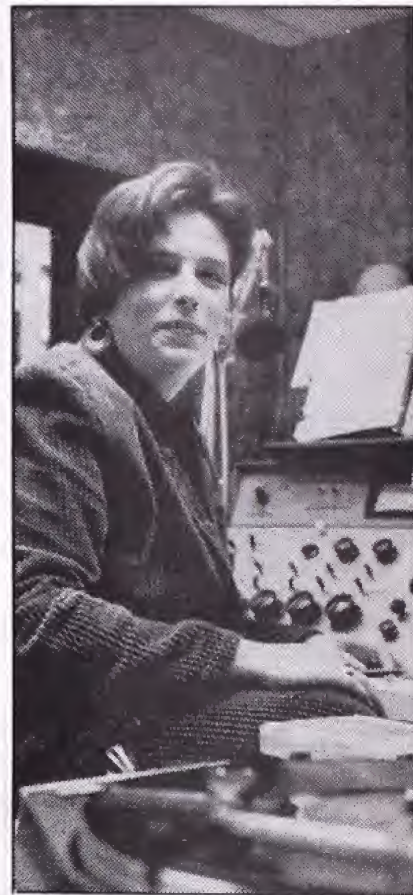

Variety is the key to the programming on WSDS, according to Bob Chandler. Rather than a selected "play list," station staffers have an opportunity to choose a variety of "up-and-comers" and oldies along with the current hits of the day.

First on the daily line-up is Clyde (yes, that's his real name) Beaver from 6 to 10 a.m., followed by Polly Pitford from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Country Dan Dixon — who is also celebrating his 20th year in radio — takes the 2 to 6 p.m. spot, and Big Bob Chandler is on duty from 6 to 9 p.m. David Welling handles the 9 p.m. to midnight duties.

Weekenders include Charlie K, Ken Anthony, Mary Costella, Terry Anderson, Brian Bar-num, Dave Seeley and John Morris plus a variety of features — Crook and Chase, Live from Gilley's, Country Road and Album Country. Carl Cedarberg broadcasts the news and numerous special features are included throughout the broadcast day on the 5,000 watt station.

The station has been broadcasting at 5,000 watts, according to the WSDS archives, since Aug. 16, 1985, when Beaver was on hand to do the first show at the increased power which enables the station to reach listeners in Wayne, Washenaw, Livingston and parts of Oakland County.

Although all of the disc jockeys play country tunes, each has a unique style of his or her own and a different focus on country music — a mixture that Beaver describes as "personality-wise, the best the station has ever been."

Beaver believes another reason the station has achieved its current popularity is "the close relationship with the listener. If someone calls, we talk. All of us have our regulars who call in, but we always have time for anyone who calls."

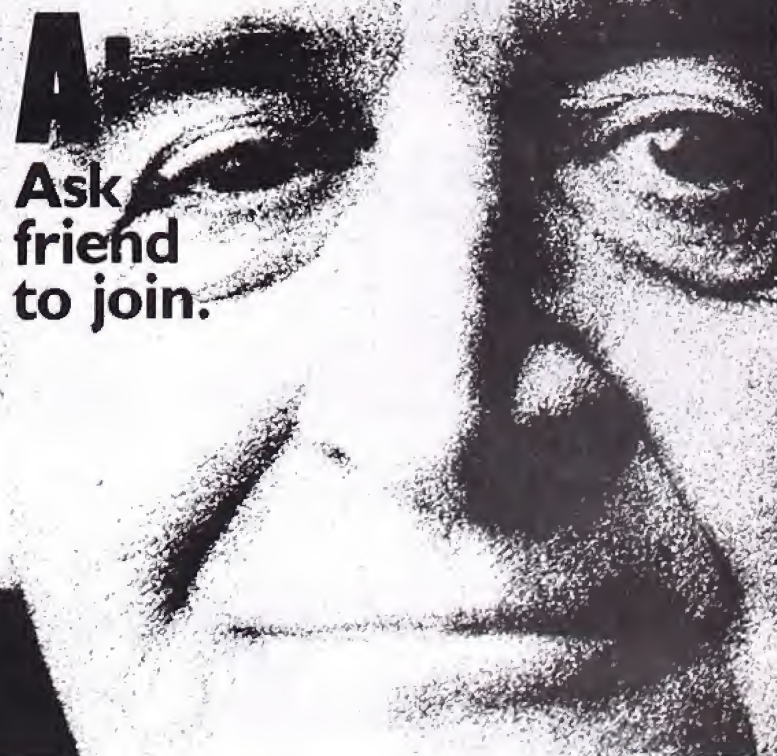

Pitford has had "three or four marriage proposals" from her fans, and Chandler was the recipient of "an eight-page letter that I don't want to talk about."

The WSDS team enjoy the remote broadcasts that put them in touch with the listeners who they would not otherwise meet on a face-to-face basis. They would be — we figured we couldn't keep (designing restaurants) up forever. We are getting too old," Nancy explained, of her start in the restaurant ownership world.

"And I love to cook. I have always loved it," she continued.

But enough about the restaurant. What about the food?

Lisa was our waitress for the evening. She promptly asked for our drink order, after we were seated. I, as usual, decided to test the skills of the bartender (who tends a full bar and is a critical part of the success story of the bar/restaurant) and ordered a sloe gin fizz.

The drink was perfect.

Now for the meal. The dinner menu at Douly's features 13 entrees, two soups, 11 appetizers, two appetizer trays, three salads, a cheese and fruit tray and two desserts. A slightly condensed and less expensive lunch menu is given to noon-time diners.

The restaurant is also open for Sunday brunch ($4.95), which includes eggs benedict, seafood crepes, omelettes, French toast, any style of eggs, sausage, Canadian bacon and steak.

With our fetish for chicken retaining a firm hold on our taste buds, Debbie and I both lunged for the poultry part of the menu.

I settled for the chicken stir fry, a breast of chicken, stir-fried with pineapples, tomatoes and snow peas, served on rice ($10.95). Debbie chose the chicken Diane, a breast of chicken in a brandy cream sauce served on rice ($10.95).

Both of our meals came complete with large salads, choice of dressing and hot, homemade bread.

The wait between our salads and entrees was longer than we were accustomed to. But the delay was soon forgotten when we both sampled our dishes. Both were very tasty, decorative and generous in portion size.

I finished my chicken stir fry, keeping in mind that I would pass up at any offer of dessert. Debbie did much the same.

So much for passing up dessert, however, as Lisa brought us a huge dish of the New Orleans-style bread pudding ($3.95) owner Nancy raves about. And with good reason!

I must admit it. I am no fan of bread pudding. I have always shared the notion that when people start mixing foods together, some kind of culinary evil is being hidden.

But this was not like anything labeled as "bread pudding" I had yet tasted. It was delicious.

Not wanting to reveal the "secret recipe" she and her cook had created, Nancy gave me a rough idea of the ingredients — bread, raisins, caramel, walnuts and a delicious bourbon sauce, all served piping hot.

Entertainment is another important part of the Douly's dining atmosphere, Nancy said. Local — and ever popular — disc jockey Dale Williams returns to his turntable Friday and Saturday nights, beginning in May. When he is not there, live entertainment will be provided by "Sterling."

In addition, daily dining specials are being offered, specials which will give the regular Douly's-goer a taste of variety.

"Everything on the menu is good, but we keep experimenting with different items all the time."

And experiments or not, one theory was certainly proven to be true from my visit to Douly's. Those who design fantastic-looking restaurants are also good cooks.

At least when their last names are Douly. I would recommend Douly's to anyone

Ethnic festivals not only in city

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

For the 18th consecutive year, a taste of foreign culture is being offered through a series of ethnic festivals at Yack Arena in Wyandotte.

"We were the first," said Harold Popp, arena manager. "When the festivals began at Yack, there weren't any other ethnic festivals sponsored by churches or any other groups."

Now, even though other festivals are slated in the area, Yack Arena has "a schedule of regulars which include the Italian, Greek, German, Mexican, Hungarian, Czechoslovak, and Polish annual events."

The spring-summer season begins with the Italian Festival in the first of May, followed by the Greek Festival on May 13 to 15. Dates for the remaining festivals are May 27-29, Mexican; June 3-5, German; June 11-12, Hungarian; June 24-26, Slavic; July 8-10, Czechoslovak; June 29-31, Polish Festival, and Aug. 13-14, Holy Cross Hungarian Festival. Each year the festivals are scheduled in the same time period for the convenience of the host group and the visitors, Popp said.

Although the festival concept has proliferated throughout the area during the last several years, Popp believes that Yack Arena has "more to offer — an air conditioned building, a good sound system and a large, lighted parking area." In addition, he said, the ethnic festivals have an authentic flavor of the various sponsoring groups. Popp was critical of some festival series in which "the same vendors offer the same foods at each event." Not so at Yack Arena, Popp said, where visitors can "actually sample a taste of the real ethnic foods, listen to the music of the countries, see the dances and feel a part of the culture."

Popp said the recipe for a successful festival consists of "good food and entertainment, good organization and publicity." The key, of course, is the people involved in sponsoring the event. There is a lot of planning and work behind the effort, Popp said, but the end result of a successful festival can provide many positive results. Most important, it can be a financial success in raising money for a building fund or other group effort, but it can also provide a service in giving people an understanding and appreciation of other cultures — bridging the gap between ethnic groups, Popp said.

Yack Arena is located at 3131 Third St., Wyandotte, north of Eureka Road.

Shop for your birthing center the way you shop for your nursery.

Getting ready for a new baby is a big job. You could spend hours comparing each stroller, looking for just the right crib, or picking out the best carseat. When it comes to the type of birthing experience you want for your baby, you have just as many choices. And you should be just as careful when deciding on a birthing option and a hospital.

That's why Annapolis Hospital invites you to do some "comparative shopping" at our newly renovated Birthing Center. We offer you a natural childbirth in the warm, home-like setting of our new birthing rooms, as well as the traditional delivery room option. Both offer you complete comfort and care.

And small touches, like a gourmet dinner for new parents and liberal visiting hours for siblings and grandparents, will help you celebrate the occasion. Annapolis also offers you a range of prenatal educational programs, from an early pregnancy class, to natural childbirth preparation classes.

Take a stroll through our Birthing Center today. The choices we give you are beyond compare.

enjoy the comments of "I always listen to you" as well as the "Gee, I didn't think you looked like that." Obviously, they said, listeners will get a pre-conceived idea of how their favorite radio personalities look, and often be surprised when reality does not imitate the illusion.

The team of disc jockeys admit to "a little bit of ego," but not to the extent that there are any primadonnas. They all work well together, they said, and "always talk up the next person" who follows them on the air.

Veteran disc jockey Dan Dixon includes everything from "steel guitar to progressive" on his daily show. He lists Merle Haggard as his favorite entertainer.

Dixon recalled that he approached his first job at a country music station with some apprehension. He was told to "give it three days" to see if he liked it — and, after the three-day trial period, Dixon continued playing country tunes for the next 20 years.

"I think people who say they don't like country music haven't really sat down and listened to it," Dixon said. "After they listen, I haven't found one person who didn't like it. I think the music that is coming out of Nashville today is just as classy as any music."

Dixon noted that the popularity of country music has increased in the past two decades as songs have "crossed the line" between country and pop music. Even within country music, he said, there is a vast variety of styles and types of music.

Polly Pittford, who likes the upbeat style of country music, tries to "mix up" the types of tunes she play each day. She describes country music as the kind of sound "that makes you feel good" with lyrics that are positive and, at times, humorous.

Beaver, who named Loretta Lynn as his favorite singer, leans toward the traditional country sounds, while Chandler, a John Anderson fan, includes a little bit of everything.

Children's trust fund is wise investment

By GEORGE HART
Guest Columnist

The education of our young citizens is one of our highest priorities and will assure that the Michigan future will be bright and continue in the successful traditions that have been established in the first 150 years of statehood. We must make sure that our kids are given the tools to compete with those from other states and countries in the future.

But the cost of a college education is skyrocketing, and many middle-class families are having a difficult time affording the costs of a four-year degree. A college degree is so important for our children, especially nowadays in our tight employment market. It can be the difference between landing a good, high-paying job with opportunity to grow and landing a low-paying position in a field you're not interested in just to make ends meet. These are tough choices that must be faced up to.

A new program that will debut next month gives hope to parents and their children in dealing with the high costs of education. It's called the Michigan Education Trust, and it was passed by the state Legislature in December, 1986. The state will begin taking applications shortly for parents who want to invest in a state trust that guarantees the cost of a four-year education when the child is ready to attend college in the future.

For a lump-sum payment of about $6,000, the state will in-

I support this program and believe it will remove financial considerations from the decision to attend a college or university in Michigan. Also, graduating students won't be burdened as they are today with a number of loans to pay back as they begin their career.

State senator vest your money and later will pay the entire cost of your child's college tuition at any of Michigan's 15 public four-year universities or 29 community colleges. How much you will pay will depend upon how old your child is at the time you join the program. It will cost more if your child is older.

The cost of a college education is expected to increase to about $20,000 to $25,000 in the year 2000, and the investment in your child's education today will be guaranteed to cover these costs then. There are four advantages to investing in this plan. The program guarantees full payment of tuition. It is flexible enough to allow the student to pick his school at the time he enters in the future.

The interest earnings will be exempt from the purchaser's federal and state taxes, according to the Internal Revenue Service, and you will be able to deduct your contribution from your income subject to Michigan income tax similar to the way an IRA previously worked on the federal level.

In addition, the states experienced money managers can take advantage of investment opportunities that individual investors may not be able to utilize.

I support this program and believe it will remove financial considerations from the decision to attend a college or university in Michigan. Also, graduating students won't be burdened as they are today with a number of loans to pay back as they begin their careers. This unique plan, the first of its kind in the country, will serve as a model for all other states to follow in an effort to make college more affordable to all Americans. I urge you to call the toll-free hotline at 1-800-MET-4-KID (1-800-638-4543) to receive information and an application to the MET program. It's a real opportunity for parents to guarantee a college education that could be the key to success for their children.

If a family is too poor to participate in this program, the state has recently expanded student aid programs just for those with the greatest financial needs. The large number of middle-income families participating in the tuition guarantee program will free up additional financial aid dollars, as well.

We, in the legislature, are doing everything we can to improve the quality of life for all Michiganders. I believe that it is our responsibility to provide the best education possible for our children and will work toward doing that in the coming years.

The MET is a step in the right direction, and I urge you to check into this worthwhile program that has been developed for you and your children.

AIDS

Fear of the disease begins to hit home

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

The AIDS epidemic is knocking at our own back doors, and we all will have to learn to live with it.

To date, 50 cases of Aquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome have been reported in Wayne County, according to the Michigan Department of Public Health. There have been 259 cases reported in Detroit and 582 cases reported in Michigan since 1981.

Because Wayne and Oakland counties have the highest numbers of AIDS cases, health experts say it is crucial for people living in these areas to become more aware of the disease and safe sex practices.

Area hospitals, clinics, counseling centers and schools have taken steps to ensure that residents receive good information about AIDS and help overcome the stigma often attached to the disease.

Next to the disease itself, the stigma and misinformation about the disease poses the greatest threat to AIDS patients, according to a counselor at Woodcreek Center, in Farmington Hills.

Eugene Hadwiger said depression is an important risk factor in AIDS patients, and much of that depression is brought on by the reaction of others who have been misinformed about the disease.

"A study showed that a great many of those told they have the AIDS virus attempt suicide," Hadwiger said.

Hadwiger counsels those who have tested positive for the HIV virus and their families.

Hadwiger said many of his patients have not shown symptoms of the disease but have only tested positive for the virus.

While AIDS has gained the most attention recently, not everyone who tests positive for the virus gets AIDS. Once a person is infected with the HIV virus, there are several possibilities. A patient may develop AIDS Related Complex, which is less severe than AIDS. The patient may show no signs of infection himself but may transmit the virus to others who could develop AIDS.

In the worst case, the patient's immune system may be destroyed by the virus, and other germs, cancers and other "opportunistic diseases" may take hold.

AIDS cannot be transmitted by casual contact. This is a fact that is hard to get through to some people, health officials say.

Hadwiger said he had a patient who told his father that he had AIDS.

"The man's father has not touched him since," Hadwiger said.

He added that there are families who are brought closer by such an announcement.

"We have a wonderful staff, and no one has ever refused to take care of an AIDS patient," said Melvena Blanton, the infection control supervisor for Westland Medical Center.

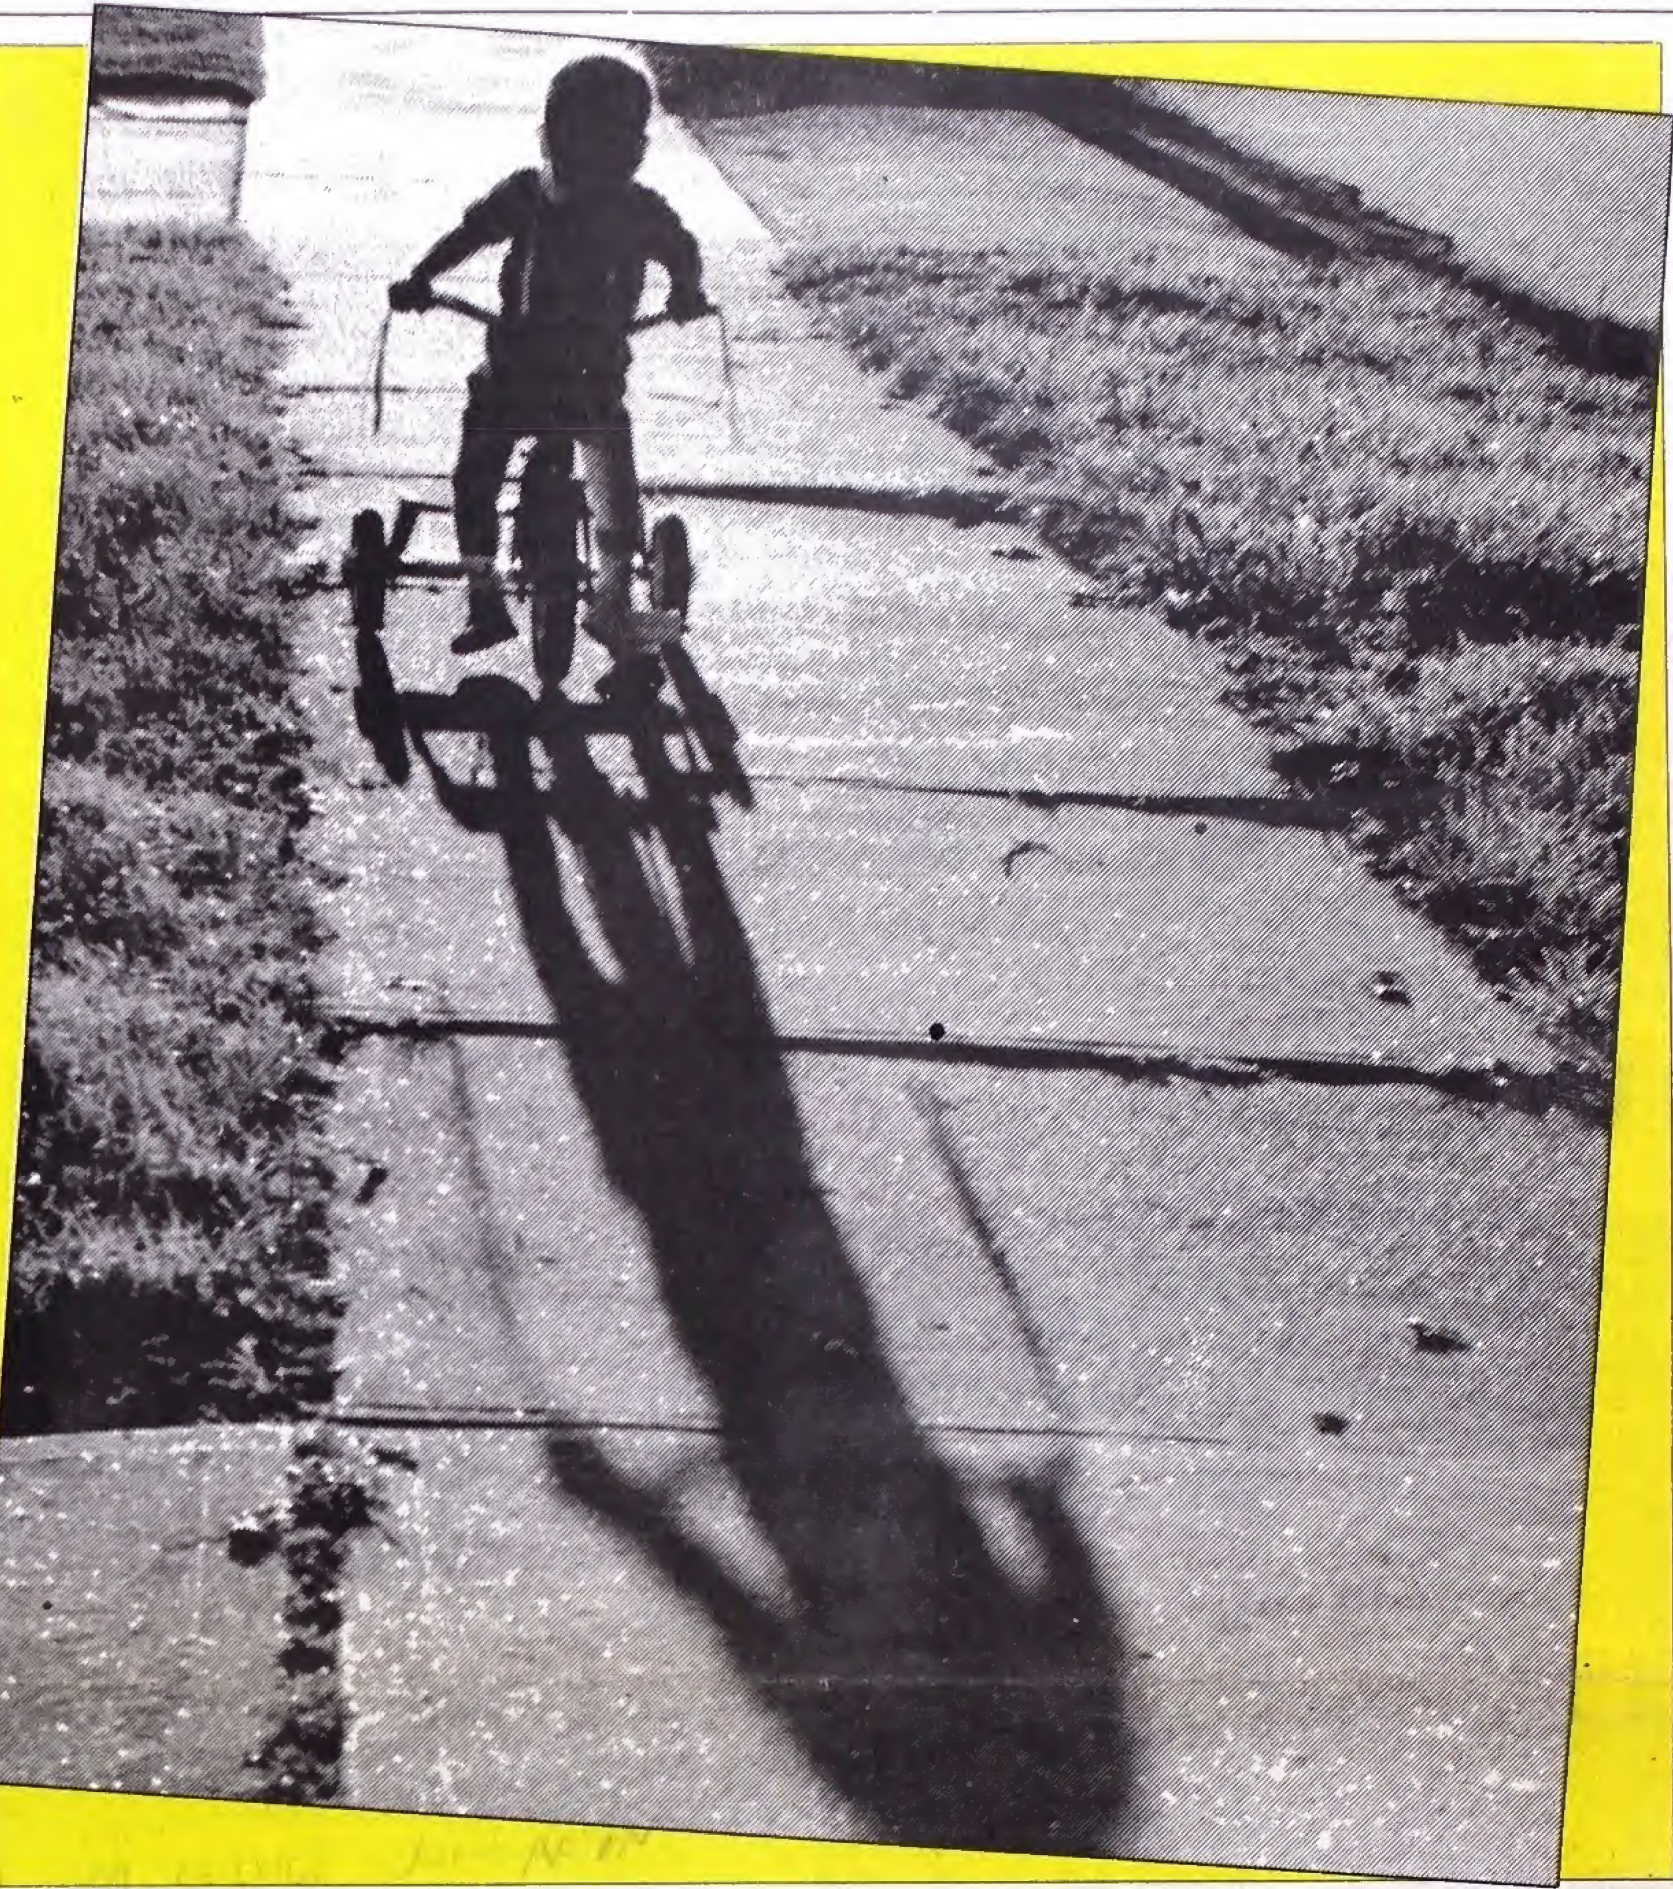

Blanton said the center has already been faced with taking care of AIDS patients, but there have been no problems with treating them as any other patient.

AIDS is transmitted through an exchange of body fluids only. Sexual intercourse - either vaginal or anal - and sharing a "dirty" needle are the most common methods of transmission.

Most medical facilities are treating AIDS as any other infectious disease - although it is more difficult to transmit than most others - by adopting universal blood and body fluids precautions.

Annapolis Hospital, Westland Medical Center and Beyer Hospital officials have all put these measures into effect.

"It's a matter of adopting the same, good infection-control measures with everyone," said Maureen Camps, public relations director for the Peoples Community Hospital Authority, in Wayne.

Universal precautions require professional staff to wear gloves - and masks and gowns when necessary - whenever they deal with blood or body fluids.

"The best policy is to treat every patient as if he or she is contagious," Camps said.

Camps said smaller hospitals, such as Annapolis and Westland Medical Center, would probably not handle major AIDS cases but would treat the less severe symptoms of patients.

"Our goal is to treat the symptom they have at the time," Blanton said.

Hospitals have also learned that it is important to direct AIDS patients to counselors and support groups for help in dealing with their disease.

Senseless fears are main AIDS concern, expert says

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Misinformation and conflicting reports have contributed to the confusion - and irrational fears - about acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The proliferation of new information, which often outdates the statements of the prior week or month, has left many individuals fearful, according to Eugene Hadwiger, a psychotherapist at Woodcreek Counseling Center. Those fears, in turn, have caused people to shun AIDS victims at a time when they most need the support of their families and friends.

"Studies have revealed that AIDS patients respond well to touching. The immune systems of terminally ill AIDS victims were monitored before and after touching, and there was a noticeable improvement after they were touched," the therapist reported.

However, Hadwiger said, it is tragic that at a time when AIDS victims most need the comfort of a caring touch and the support of their friends and families, they are shunned and avoided by those who fear the disease.

"There are many instances when parents find that their children have tested positive for the AIDS virus that they stop touching and hugging them," Hadwiger said.

Among the problems that the AIDS victim must face, Hadwiger said, is a reluctance among some professionals to treat them. For example, AIDS patients have problems in finding a dentist to treat them, and it is not unusual for funeral directors to be wary of handling arrangements for victims of the disease. In both instances, Hadwiger said, the fears are based on a real danger - cuts by sharp instruments could cause infected body fluids to infect the person administering services.

During the past year, Hadwiger has presented instructional programs to health workers to help them to overcome unrealistic fears regarding the disease, and to provide them with skills in dealing with the unique problems of AIDS victims and their families.

Hadwiger, who has counseled AIDS victims and their families, noted that many people who test positive for the virus "turn inward and become depressed." Sensitive individuals may be consumed with self-blame and look upon the disease as "God's wrath and punishment for their life style." Often, Hadwiger said, these people may isolate themselves from others, making a decision that their sex life is over. On the other hand, some AIDS victims have taken the "really dangerous step of continuing to have sex with many partners without informing them of the potential danger."

In counseling sessions,

Hadwiger attempts to "turn the AIDS victim around psychologically, so he will begin to do things to build up his immune system with such things as exercising and eating more nutritious meals. Hadwiger uses "visualization - helping the person to imagine rebuilding his immune system."

Acceptance of an AIDS diagnosis is most difficult for bisexual males, according to Hadwiger. Often the man has hidden his homosexual experiences from those around him - perhaps even his wife - and the diagnosis forces him to reveal the past contacts he has had and, in turn, acknowledge the homosexual aspect of his life, Hadwiger said. Most bisexual men are "devastated when they test positive for AIDS," he said.

Most AIDS patients have multiple problems when they enter counseling, Hadwiger said. In addition, to the depression that is common to most patients, many do not have jobs or are unable to work. If they are not employed, then they do not have insurance to pay for their medical treatment which is "astronomical in costs" according to Hadwiger. Consequently many AIDS victims are on public assistance, he said.

Hadwiger advocates appropriate caution to avoid the AIDS virus, and sees the "panic as counterproductive to dealing with the problem."

SOON TO WED

Yoskovich - Hale

Mr. and Mrs. William Yoskovich, of Lincoln Park, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Donna Marie, to Michael Duane Hale, of Yale Street, Westland. He is the son of Wilma Hale, of Westland.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Lincoln Park High School. She works at the Mazda plant, in Flat Rock.

The groom-to-be is a 1974 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. He works at McNichols Polishing and Anodizing, in Detroit.

Bumbalough - Watts

Regina Bumbalough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bumbalough, of Parkwood Street, Westland, will exchange vows, in a double-ring ceremony May 14, with Timothy Watts, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Watts, of Birchwood Street, Westland. The ceremony will be staged at the Westland First Free Methodist Church.

The bride-elect is a 1986 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. She attended the William D. Ford Vocational Center and is now working with the Falzone Laboratories.

Dotson - Sleicher

Connie F. Dotson, of North Wayne Road, Westland, and Brian P. Sleicher, of South Lotz Road, Canton, were united in marriage March 6 at the Church of Christ, Belleville. The Rev. Vance Cobb officiated during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dotson, of South Newburgh Road, Wayne. She works as the cash manager for the Wayne Westland Federal Credit Union, Wayne.

The groom is the son of Jerome Sleicher, of Canton. He works in golf course construction for Hilltop Glen Golf Incorp. He also is a senior at Eastern Michigan University.

The church was decorated with altar flowers, pew bows - all in peach and ivory - for the ceremony.

The bridal dress was an ivory, Victorian-style, tea-length gown, with a pearl necklace and earrings. The bride carried a bouquet of roses and wore flowers in her hair.

She was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor for the occasion was Gail M. Silva, a friend of the bride, of Wayne. She wore a peach, tea-length dress and carried a bouquet of peach roses.

Harold Sleicher, the groom's brother, of Jackson, served as best man. Ushers included Rick

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Sleicher

Dotson, the bride's brother, of Dearborn Heights.

Trisha Dotson, the bride's niece served as the flowergirl. James Lee Dotson, the bride's nephew, was ringbearer.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Fellows Creek Country Club, in Canton. The event was hosted by both parents and featured a two-tier cake, disc jockey and tables decorated in the peach-and-ivory theme.

The two traveled to Florida for two weeks for their honeymoon.

Seifert - Moore

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Seifert, of Fourth Street, Wayne, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Sandra Ellaine, to Donald Moore. The couple were married March 17 - St. Patrick's Day - in Reno, Nevada.

The groom is the son of Marie Moore, of Westland.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Donald Moore serve in the Army and will reside in Ft. Sill, Okla. They are also both 1986 graduates of Wayne Memorial High School.

JUST MARRIED

Traver - Fowler

Tamara Faye Traver, of Regene Street, and Edward E. Fowler Jr., of South Wayne Road, were united in marriage Feb. 27 at the First Methodist Church of Wayne. The Rev. Linderman, of the Tri-City Assembly of God, Canton, officiated during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Traver, of Regene Street. She is a 1987 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fowler, of South Wayne Road. He is a 1985 graduate of Wayne Memorial and is currently enlisted in the Air Force, stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

About 185 guests attended the event. The church was decorated with large, teal bows on the pews, inset with white carnations and evergreen, two large seven-tier candelabra and fresh flowers on the altar.

Music was provided by Norman Swope. Anita Smith sang solo.

The bridal dress was a white, satin gown, with brocade, lace, six strings of pearls, Angel-style long sleeves and 6-foot train. The bride wore a crown-style veil, with fingertip veiling and blusher.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fowler Jr.

Her bouquet was of white roses, double cascading, teal carnations, pearls with iridescent and flowing lace.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Janet Zeigler, a cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Carrie Simonds, Cheree Baker and Michelle Carak.

Best man was Bob Millyard. Ushers included David Hess, Steve Swope and Tim Mullroy.

Danielle Fowler, the groom's sister, was the flowergirl. Ben Traver, the bride's brother, was ringbearer for the event.

A reception followed the ceremony at Leright's Banquet Hall. The two traveled to Sticklands Resort, Mt. Pocono, Pa., for their honeymoon.

Southern cooking 'pays off'

just desserts

It's becoming more and more obvious that good cooks are worth their weight in gold.

The Pillsbury Bake Off winners are walking away from the competition thousands of dollars richer and now Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese is sponsoring a recipe contest that will provide a trip for two to New Orleans including round-trip first class airfare, deluxe hotel accommodations, limousine sightseeing tours, an awards dinner and $500 in cash. Not bad for what the Kraft company is asking.

All contestants need do is hand print their name, address and telephone number, category and recipe name on a 3 by 5 paper. Then on an 8 1/2 by 11 sheet, hand print or type the complete recipe. The recipe must include a minimum of one 8-ounce package of Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese.

One winner will be selected in categories of cookies and desserts, cheesecakes, appetizers and snacks and main and side dishes. There is a grand prize winner in each of the four divisions, so it sounds like a great offer to me. Each entry must be mailed separately and must include a proof-of-purchase seal from one 8-ounce package of Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese. The deadline for entries is June 30, so better get busy in the kitchen.

Recipes should be mailed to "Philly" Hall of Fame Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 1229, Skokie, Ill. 60076-8229.

To inspire more recipes, Kraft has created something called Sinful Praline Cheesecake. Just reading this recipe made my mouth water, although I do confess, it is one of the few printed here which I haven't tested...and tasted.

Sinful praline cheesecake

CRUST

- 1 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs
- 1/4 cup ground pecans
- 3 tablespoons packed brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/3 cup margarine, melted

Combine crumbs, ground pecans, sugar, cinnamon and margarine. Press onto bottom and 1 1/2 inches up sides of a 9-inch springform pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 10 minutes.

FILLING

- 3 8-ounce packages Philadelphia Brand Cream Cheese, softened
- 3/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
- 2 teaspoons vanilla

Combine cream cheese and sugar, mixing at medium speed on electric mixer until well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Blend in chopped pecans and vanilla and pour over crust. Bake at 325 degrees for 50 minutes. Loosen cake from rim of pan and cool before removing rim. Chill. Garnish with whipped topping and pecans.

TOPPING

- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/3 cup light corn syrup
- 1/4 cup margarine, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, corn syrup and margarine in saucepan and bring to boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Chill until slightly thickened. Serve with cheesecake.

LET THEM EAT CAKE

BY BETH SUNDRLA

Nancy McGuire (above) knows how to keep dinner guests coming back for more. She serves a wide range of savory sweets, from cakes to cookies and a few pies. She has even made a business of her skill, making cakes for graduations, weddings and birthdays. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Satisfying sweet tooth is second nature to this cook

At Christmas, she makes 140 dozen cookies for her friends, family and neighbors. Nancy McGuire does it because it's something she loves to do.

"I like to cook, but I get real enjoyment out of baking," McGuire said.

She begins baking Christmas cookies at Thanksgiving and often devotes entire days to baking cookies nearer to the holiday season.

McGuire said she takes after her mother in that she loves to give things to people. That includes giving much of her time.

She works part time as a nurse at Beyer Memorial Hospital, in Ypsilanti, and at an allergist's office in Ypsilanti. She also enjoys spending time with her family - husband Tom and two sons.

"I was always a working person," McGuire said.

Live changed, however, when McGuire gave birth to her first son almost 14 years ago.

"When you're used to working, it's hard to stay home every day," McGuire said.

She grew up on a farm, where working from sunrise to sunset was a normal part of life.

After her son was born, McGuire began taking cake-decorating lessons. During the years, she completed 40 weeks of classes in cake decorating and now makes cakes for weddings, confirmations, graduation and even birthdays.

McGuire said she inherited her love of cooking from her mother, who taught her everything she knows.

"By the seventh grade, I cooked the family meals," she said. "But you have to want to cook."

"I don't know why some people can't cook," McGuire continued. "My mom taught me to appreciate cooking. She taught me the patience to cook."

"Don't hurry things up," McGuire offered as advice. "It takes time to cook. The quicker you cook something, the tougher it is."

Even with her busy life, she finds time for cooking and helping her aunt cater as a hobby. McGuire had served as president of the PTO in Belleville, until she finally decided she had to give something up.

"My time has to be very organized," she explained.

To make wedding cakes, McGuire plans ahead. The layers are baked in advance and frozen.

Time is then allowed for the layers to return to room temperature before decorating.

In making roses for the cake, McGuire makes them in advance and sets them aside to dry, so they can be handled.

She smooths her frosting by using a hot knife and by dipping the knife in hot water.

She also assembles the cake once at home and again once it is transported. This helps make sure the cake will be level.

McGuire's love of cooking has worn off on her oldest son, who won a school cooking contest with mom's "Chocolate Delight" recipe.

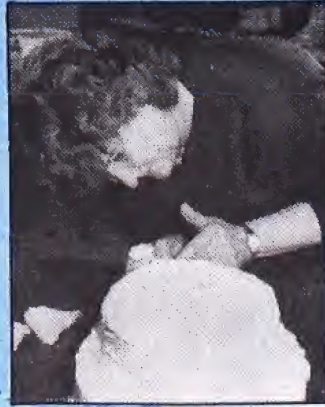

Her son has also surprised her by preparing dinner while she is working at the doctor's office.

"It won't hurt him to know how to cook," McGuire said. McGuire says experimenting with new recipes and making them work for her is one of her favorite hobbies.

With spatula in hand, Nancy McGuire (photo 1) sets out to create a masterpiece of a cake. After the batter is baked into the various round layers, McGuire stacks the layers (photo 2), ensuring that they are level. Wooden support posts help keep the cake from caving in. Next comes the icing (photo 3), and careful is the watchword, as each layer is decorated. And what wedding cake would be complete without a fountain (photo 4)? The fountain pillars are important aesthetically and as added support for the cake. Finally, the finished product (photo 5) - after about six hours of a cake decorator's skill and time.

Educating in our schools

While hospitals have taken precautions in treating patients who might be infected, schools are setting up curricula for educating students about the disease and how it is transmitted.

Area boards of education have poured over materials on AIDS education, and most have adopted similar policies which include education about AIDS at the junior and senior high school levels. In dealing with students who might develop the AIDS virus, school district officials have decided to deal on a case-by-case basis.

"The policy goes along perfectly with the policies set for sex education," Wayne-Westland School Board member Kathleen Chorbagan said earlier.

She added that she wanted her children to be scared to death of AIDS because it is such a life-or-death situation.

Hadwiger said education is often an important part of his job as a counselor. He said the first thing he discusses with patients is who should be told about the disease and which safe sex practices should be observed.

"Confidentiality is a very important issue. They don't want to tell anyone," Hadwiger said. "When that is the case, I am very adamant about safe sex practices."

Hadwiger also teaches a course on AIDS in Southfield. The class is popular with nurses and other health professionals.

Most of the health officials interviewed said they are beginning to see more people infected with the virus and expect to see even more in the future.

Blanton said she expects to see more AIDS patients at Westland Medical Center. She added that there have probably been more of them there than she realized

Cakes

A chocolate chow mein cookie recipe has been transformed into a butterscotch chow mein cookie recipe.

She also has a taco salad recipe that generates many requests.

"I'd be rich if I had a dollar for everytime I've given that recipe out," she said.

Some of her favorite recipes include:

Banana split cake

- 2 cups crushed graham crackers
- 2/3 cup melted butter
- 2 sticks soft oleo
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 large bananas dipped in pineapple juice
- 1 16-ounce can crushed, drained pineapple
- 1 large container whipped topping

Mix graham crackers, melt butter and press in 9-inch-by-13-inch baking pan until firm. Spread oleo, eggs, powdered sugar and vanilla mixture over cracker crust. Spread bananas over filling. Then spread pineapple over bananas. Cover with whipped topping.

Optional: add nuts and cherry. Chill for eight hours.

Chocolate delight

- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 cup ground nuts
- 1 stick oleo
- 1 8-ounce package of cream cheese
- 1 cup powdered sugar, sifted
- 1 cup whipped topping
- 1 4-ounce package of instant vanilla pudding
- 3 cups milk
- 1 4-ounce package of instant chocolate pudding
- Nuts

Mix flour, nuts and oleo and spread in bottom of 9-inch-by-11-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool.

Spread cream cheese, sugar and whipped topping on top of crust. Mix pudding mixes and milk together and spread on top of cream cheese mixture. Cover with remaining whipped topping. Add nuts.

Spaghetti salad

- 1 1/2 pounds spaghetti, cooked
- 2 cucumbers
- 1 tomato
- 1 red onion
- 1 bottle McCormick Salad Supreme
- 1 large bottle Italian dressing

Add all ingredients to cooked spaghetti. Refrigerate for 24 hours. Serve.

Chow mein noodle cookies

- 2 packages butterscotch chips
- 1 large can chow mein noodles

Melt butterscotch chips. Add noodles. Drop by spoonful on waxed paper.

Optional: Add 1/2 cup of peanut butter to chips.

Cheesecake cookies

- 1/3 cup butter
- 1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 8 ounces cream cheese
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter with brown sugar. Add flour and nuts to make crumb mixture. Reserve 1 cup of mixture for topping. Press remainder in 8-inch, square pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes until light brown. Blend sugar and cream cheese until smooth. Add egg, milk, lemon juice and vanilla. Beat well. Spread over baked crust. Sprinkle with rest of crumb mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool and cut into squares.

Cliff Newman, of Westland, has shaken hands with some of the greats, including Joe Louis, Wayne Newton, Lena Horne and Pearl Bailey.

He and his wife, Dorothy, grew up in Detroit, but moved to Westland 12 years ago. After almost 47 years of marriage, the Newmans keep active with clubs at the Dyer Center in Westland.

Cliff Newman is also an avid woodcarver, a hobby he took up after his retirement. He has been carving about eight years.

The Newmans have two daughters and four grandchildren.

Newman likes the challenge of getting past guards to meet famous people he admires. His wife hides her face during these incidents and pretends not to know him, she said.

But he looks back on the experiences with pride and loves to tell the stories over and over.

Newman worked in a paint factory in Detroit when he was young. He was also an amateur boxer for six years before he was drafted into the Navy for World War II.

After 28 months in the Navy, he returned home and returned to the paint factory. He later got a job at Chrysler, where he worked for 32 years as a combination welder.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: Describe the time you met Wayne Newton during one of his shows at the Omni Theater in February.

NEWMAN: We were just sitting in there and he just kept looking at me. Finally he sent a guy down there and he said 'What's your name,' 'What's your wife's name,' 'How long you been married,' and I said 'You wait a minute.' I got up. There was a body guard standing there and I walked right by him kind of quick-like. He thought I was going to go up on the stage, but I come down and went in front of the stage. I said 'I just want to shake your hand.' He bent down and shook my hand.

On his way back he said 'you know that little guy's got a pretty good handshake. I think he was trying to get that diamond ring off my finger.' He had a big diamond ring that covered two of his fingers.

We joked back and forth and then he said 'I'm going to sing a song for you and your wife. They put the spotlights on us. Then he sang a song, and all through the rest of the show he kept kidding with us. It was just a wonderful evening. After the show was over the bodyguard said 'Hey, Cliff, come here I want to talk to you. If you're ever in Las Vegas,' he says, 'you look us up.'

ANP: How did you meet your wife?

NEWMAN: I worked in a paint factory. She got hired in there. The girls always kept saying we're going to make a date for you. We were already going together and they didn't even know it.

Cliff Newman (above) has met several "personalities." But he, too, matches such a description to several senior citizens in Westland. ANP photo by Ann Gimes/staff photographer

ANP: Do you have any hobbies?

NEWMAN: Yeah, I carve ducks. I like to garden, and I like playing golf. And in the wintertime I'm Santa Claus. I've been Santa Claus for the last five years at the Dyer Center.

ANP: I understand you shook hands with Joe Louis when Joe Louis Arena was being dedicated.

NEWMAN: I shook hands with Joe Louis the day they give him that arena down there. I was down there watching Tommy Hearns fight. My hand and arm was in his hand that was how big his hand was. I was the only one that shook hands with him that day.

ANP: How did you go about meeting him?

NEWMAN: I asked the guy that was taking the ringside tickets. I said 'Say buddy, I used to box the same time as Joe Louis did back in '37. I was a flyweight boxer.' And I said 'I sure would like to shake hands with Joe Louis.' He said 'I don't know. I could get fired. I don't see you let's put it like that.' I said 'OK but when I shake hands with him you turn around and watch.' I went over there. A big photographer was standing right in back of Joe Louis, and he had a camera on his chest. He was so big that when he turned around the camera hit me right in the head. He said 'Where in the hell are you going.' I said 'I'm going to shake hands with my buddy Joe Louis' and when I did that he (Joe Louis) turned around in his wheelchair. I said 'Joe, I'm Cliff Newman, the biggest fan you ever had and I fought the same time as you did - I was a flyweight.' Oh man, he said 'Cliff it's a pleasure.'

Coleman Young was sitting right next to him, and I said 'Mayor, any friend of Joe Louis is a friend of mine.' So I shook hands with him, too. And Joe Louis said, 'Cliff, you might as well stay right here by me and watch this.' I said 'will it be all right?' And he said 'It will be all right.'

ANP: You also shook hands with Lena Horne and Pearl Bailey?

NEWMAN: I sure did. When we went to see Lena Horne, she was way on the other side of the stage and I said 'Lena, come here.' She came running over. 'I said I'm Cliff Newman. I want to shake your hand.' She says 'Oh, Cliff it's a pleasure.' It was the same with Pearl Bailey.

You know, there's some people that say it can't be done. I've just got enough nerve that I will go out of my way to try to do it.

ANP: Describe your boxing career.

NEWMAN: I was a flyweight before World War II for six years. Joe Ingles was my manager. I did it until my parents died.

My mother died in '37 and my father in '38 and I was a homeboy and it just knocked me.

"MAKING MONEY THROUGH Contracts: Diversification Through New Markets," an educational series of workshops focusing on securing business through local, state and federal governments, is scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon May 4, 11 and 18 at the Wayne State University Small Business Development Center, 2727 Second Ave., Detroit. The workshop schedule will include: "Selling to Local and State Governments," May 4; "Selling to the Federal Government," May 11; and "Business to Business Selling," May 18. The fee will be $20. For more information, call 577-4850.

FIRST OF AMERICA Bank Corp. announced a dividend of 45 cents per share of common stock. The dividend will be payable July 22 to shareholders of record as of June 24, 1988.

A THREE-DAY business exposition, "Expo '88," will be staged at the Dearborn Civic Center beginning Sept. 27. The exposition will be open to all area businesses to showcase products and/or services to area merchants. Officials at the Dearborn Chamber Commerce are currently searching for area businesses to participate in the event. Chamber officials said 68 exhibit spaces will be available.

THIRTEEN LOCAL BUSINESSES will offer advice to 100 Wayne County high school students during the Future Entrepreneurs Conference, set for Friday, April 29 at the University of Michigan-Dearborn. Students and their teachers from high schools in Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Detroit, Inkster and Redford have been invited to the conference.

PAT CHOATE, DIRECTOR of policy analysis for TRW Inc., will speak at 5 p.m. tomorrow in the High Tech Lecture series sponsored by the University of Michigan-Dearborn School of Engineering and the Ford Motor Co. Choate, who has been described by the National Journal as "one of America's 10 most influential business people in affecting what government does," will speak on "The High-Flex Society: Global Competitiveness." The free lecture will be staged in the auditorium of Ford World Headquarters. For more information, call 271-0233.

SHERRY BOOTH, OF Westland, and Diane Schaffer, of Wayne, both nursing assistants at the Westland Convalescent Center for six years, have been selected as the employees of the month for April.

BONNIE BLUNT, ROBERT Pearson and Eugenia Denson, of the Robert C. Pearson Agency, Inkster, recently met in Grand Rapids with Michigan Commissioner of Insurance Herman Coleman. The commissioner and members of the agency discussed the Michigan insurance climate at the 90th annual conference of the Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan.

THE CANTON BUSINESS and Professional Women are offering the annual scholarship. Applicants should be women entering the work force and in need of financial assistance. Applications are available at the Canton Township Public Library or at the First of America Bank-Wayne, 41652 Ford Road, Canton. Applications will be available through May 1. For more information, call 721-4151 or 981-5900.

JAY MANSFIELD, OF Romulus, has earned membership in the Lutheran Brotherhood 1987 Executives Club. The club is one of the top sales honors for the fraternal benefit society. He is associated with the Lutheran Brotherhood Karl Mueller Agency, in Rochester Hills.

'Expectant fathers' receive added time off

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

The Wayne County government is now offering employees who become new fathers the option of taking a leave of absence to be with their children.

In addition, a few local corporations are allowing similar types of unpaid leaves for their employees.

In the past, only female employees were entitled to take personal leave without pay for a period of up to six months following the birth or adoption of a child. Now fathers will also be eligible for such personal leave, according to a new policy proposed by Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

"In essence, we are providing equal opportunity for fathers," said McNamara. "I feel it is time we make this option available to both parents, especially since dual-career families are more common than the old-fashioned, stereotyped, 'dad works and mom stays home' families."

Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations for the Plymouth-Canton school district, said the district has a policy allowing for up to a year off for personal leave. Egli said the district has offered a policy to all employees for this type of personal leave.

"We certainly feel it's appropriate," he said.

School officials recently granted a leave to teacher Ron Zang. Zang teaches the talented and gifted program at Central Middle School, in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

Pat Kramer, Zang's wife, said she plans to continue working as a midwife, even though her children are small. Their children are ages 10 months, 5 years and 7.

"We decided one of us needs to be here all the time," Kramer said.

The two are also teaching the children at home, and both parents feel the need to spend time with the children.

"Neither one of us wants to be away from them as much as a full-time job would keep us away," Kramer said.

Officials from other major employers in the area say they have no policy allowing for this type of leave. However, employees can use their personal or vacation time.

"There's no policy for maternity leave — it's personal time," said Jim Trainor, a spokesman for the Ford Motor Co. "In rare cases, an employee could get some extended time off."

At the Peoples Community Hospital Authority, employees can apply for a leave of absence in writing, according to Maureen Camps, director of community relations.

Each request for leave is evaluated by administrators, who may or may not grant the leave.

With this type of leave, the employee's position is not guaranteed when he leaves, Camps said. But the employee is put on a recall list for the next opening.

Wayne County employees will be guaranteed their positions when returning from a leave, according to Barbara Rickert, spokesperson for the Wayne County executive's office.

Studies have shown that the three- to six-month period immediately following the birth of a child is extremely important in the bonding process between mother and the child.

In cases where it is not practical for the mother to remain at home — whether it is for financial reasons, career interruptions or personal choice — the father should have the opportunity to take care of the new family member, McNamara said.

However, no requests have been submitted yet for the new leave, according to Rickert.

"Mr. McNamara is concerned about women's issues, and he felt the option should be available," she said.

Going crackers

Canton Kroger store Manager Bill Heimke (left) accepted an award of excellence from Keebler Co. sales representative Tina Kiskowski this week. The honor is given by Keebler four times each year to stores which have constant displays of Keebler crackers and products. The Canton store also recently won a regional competition out of 42 entrants in Detroit for a mass display of Keebler products. The Competition was sponsored by Progressive Grocer magazine. Covered enthusiasm weakens market

The market statistics of this week will only add to the confusion for future market direction. The market data from last week may be obscured by buyers who had sold put options and future put options.

With the image of Oct. 19 fresh in their mind, they created the Friday buying strength (covering enthusiasm) in hopes of cutting possible future losses.

For this week, interest rates will move in narrower ranges, with a downward bias. Gold and silver prices will move higher, as inflation fears begin to surface.

This week, short-term traders will open the session willing to hold current positions but will be ready to move to the sell-side on any market weakness.

Intermediate-term traders are sitting on the sidelines, with little interest in this unsettled market.

Long-term traders will be on the sell-side, looking for the opportunity to vacate the market.

The market this week will open mixed. Players are unsure as to what market group will direct the movement of sentiment. The slight recovery of Friday will be difficult to carry over the session. The market will weaken in the middle of the week and end with a downward bias.

SPECIAL: In 1962, the market correct 30 percent. In 1966, it was 35 percent. In 1973 and 1974, it was 40 percent. And from Aug. 25, 1987, with a Dow at 2722, to Oct. 19, at 1738, it was a correction of 36 percent.

In hindsight, 1962, 1966, 1973 and 1974 were four of the best times to invest in the stock market in recent memory. The fifth best time was in August 1982.

Will history repeat itself again?

Substance abuse series planned at mall

Shoppers at Westland Center will find more than merchants and merchandise at the mall next week.

From Friday, April 22 to Saturday, April 30, center officials will team with representatives of at least 19 other shopping malls to sponsor "KIDS KNOW!" — a series of drug and alcohol awareness activities.

Planned events include a state poster contest, with three $500 grand prizes, celebrity appearances, rap and dance contests, photographs of kids signing pledges to "say no" to drugs and alcohol, gymnastic and karate demonstrations and exhibits staffed by kids helping others to learn about drugs and alcohol.

KIDS KNOW! is a public service campaign sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers, a 23,000-member trade association based in New York. The program is designed to educate kids and their families about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse, to help kids make a commitment to themselves and their friends and to guide kids and their families to the appropriate community resources for help if it is needed, promoters said.

This is the third year that the ICSC has sponsored a public service campaign. More than 2,500 shopping centers and retailers across the U.S. and Canada participated last year.

Organizers of the KIDS KNOW! campaign said that about one out of every 10 adolescents are dependent on drugs and alcohol, 36 percent of all fourth-graders say children their age pressure others to drink beer, wine or liquor, 24 percent pressure others to try cocaine, 57 percent of all teens purchase their drugs at school, 58 percent of high school seniors have used drugs, 16 percent have tried cocaine, and the average beginning age for alcohol use is now 12 1/2 years.

A specific schedule of events at Westland Center was not available.
